

Freshmen Camp at Ockanickon; Y. W. Entertains Girls at Lodge

Over 140 Men Brave Hurricane at 9th Annual Orientation Camp; Olympics End in Tie

Record Breaking Group Braves Hurricane to Attend Site at Ockanickon; Faculty and Student Leaders Speak

In spite of wind and water in the form of a hurricane, the 1936 Freshman Orientation Camp was attended by more entering freshmen than any other get-together of similar purpose at Drexel. Over 140 men were present at the Y. M. C. A. site at Camp Ockanickon on September 18, 19, and 20, and were acclimated by talks presented by faculty and student leaders. This was the ninth Drexel Freshman Camp.

In the midst of a drenching down-pour, three packed buses took the new men from Drexel to the Medford Lake camping ground Friday afternoon. However, the elements could not quench the exuberant spirit, and soon Dr. Welch had the group huddled by a roaring fire singing songs.

After dinner the group gathered in the mess hall, and Roy Gibson, President of the Drexel Y. M. C. A., introduced Dr. Stratton, Dean of Men, who welcomed the freshmen, and warned them of the pitfalls to come. Dr. Fred Iglie, Director of Freshman Camp at the University of Pennsylvania, was the second speaker of the evening. Dr. Iglie discoursed on the types of students who should and should not be permitted to attend college.

A bright warming sun greeted the chilly campers Saturday morning, and in a few hours tennis, quills, volleyball, and Hi-Lo were all being played by scores of freshmen, and the lake was dotted with canoes and rowboats. Several exhibited their prowess in the water and strangers were ducking each other with the nonchalance of old friends.

Just before noon, Dr. Disque, Dean of the School of Engineering, and Professor MacDonald, head of the English department, spoke to the group in the outdoor arena.

Shortly after lunch, the Drexel Olympiad was held under the auspices of Coach Leonard of the track team. The freshmen, already grouped in sixes and sevens for cabin allotments, composed eighteen teams, each coached by upper classmen. As an incentive for winning, it was announced that each member of the winning combination would receive a Drexel key. There were seven events in the contest, including swimming, canoeing, volleyball, baseball, and a shuttle relay. The swimming and canoeing events were run in heats, while the volleyball and baseball teams were composed of one man from each group.

Rooms, Offices Assume Modern Contours During Summer Term

New offices, new laboratories, and bright freshly painted walls greeted students and faculty members as they returned from their summer vacations. The considerable increase in the number of students in chemical engineering made it necessary to secure additional space for laboratories in organic and analytical chemistry. For this reason the former food demonstration laboratory as well as the antiquated chemical laboratory, which was adjacent to it, were removed to make room for the new laboratory. The new well lighted spacious laboratory benches accommodate 120 students. Each bench contains taps for water, gas and vacuum. The laboratory is also equipped with an automatic shower, drying ovens, fume hoods and a ventilating system which can completely change the air in five minutes. Adjacent to the laboratory are a balance room and office which are occupied by Professor Hanson, and Drs. Liechtenwalner and Chase.

A new food laboratory is being installed in room 311-A. Many of the show cases have been removed from the museum to the balconies to make way for the new offices which are being erected in the space formerly occupied by the museum. The museum collections will be segregated in a separate room, covering only a part of the space now occupied. The work on the project is rapidly nearing completion.

The formerly dingy, dismal lounge now shines forth, this marvelous transformation having been accomplished by a coat of paint. Many of the hallways and stairways have been recently painted giving them a new brightness and sparkle.

Entering Women Given Banquet at Dorm Before Weekend at the Lodge

The Y. W. C. A. entertained the Freshmen women and women faculty at a formal banquet on Friday, September 25th, at the Dormitory. After the banquet they all went out to the Lodge for the Freshman Camp weekend. This was the largest and most successful weekend the Y. W. has ever conducted. More than 130 were present at the Lodge and 165 attended the banquet.

Dr. and Mrs. Kolbe, Mr. and Mrs. Wagenseller and all the women faculty were invited to the banquet. A teacher and an upper classman were co-hostesses at each table, and Dr. Kolbe spoke for a few minutes after dinner. A quartet furnished a musical atmosphere throughout the evening. The buses arrived at the Dormitory at 9:00 and took the Freshmen out to the Lodge where a campfire awaited them. Under the leadership of Jean Mueller the girls sang some of Drexel's songs around the campfire in preparation for tomorrow's football game. Marshmallows added to the enjoyment of the evening.

Saturday morning the upper classmen led small discussion groups, trying to help the Freshmen learn the customs of Drexel, thus starting them off on the right path for their four years. Organized sports kept the girls active in the afternoon and they were ready for the campfire dinner down on the island. In the evening a few freshmen gave a short skit which they had practiced during the afternoon with the help of Helen McClure. Then Mr. Welch, Director of Musical Activities, led the group in two hours of song and fun.

Mrs. Judd, the Secretary of the Y. W., talked to the girls for a short time during the morning service on Sunday. Dr. Diehm and Mrs. Judd spent the week-end with the Freshmen, and Dean Dorsey, Miss Crawley and Dean Godfrey visited the Camp and stayed for dinner on Sunday.

Betty Grigg and Mary Lentz divided the Freshmen into four teams according to their rooms at the beginning of the week-end. They were given points for promptness, willingness, participation in activities, and neatness of their rooms. After dinner on Sunday the prizes were given to each member of the winning team. The prizes were mirrored boxes filled with chocolate buds.

At 2:30 on Sunday afternoon the buses took the Freshmen home, tired from a joyful week-end.

Today is the last day of the Y. W. Membership Drive. All Drexel girls should join because non-members will not be permitted to attend any Y. W. luncheons or meetings this year.

Dramatic Fraternity Gives 'Petticoat Fever'

"Petticoat Fever," a Broadway comedy hit of a season ago, will be presented by the Alpha Psi Omega Dramatic Fraternity as its first production of the year. The cast of Mark Reed's famous comedy, which will be presented October 30, 31, will be headed by Wanda Calhoun, Helen McClure, Bill Gill, Jesse Jessen and John Diemler. The production is being handled by Dr. Robert S. Hanson, advisor to the fraternity.

The three-act comedy concerns a Labrador radio operator, who is contemplating a long winter without female society, when an airplane accident introduces a beautiful girl; his shanty immediately takes on the atmosphere of an Island house party.

A musical comedy will be presented in collaboration with the men's and women's glee club during the winter term. Next spring the fraternity will sponsor the annual intra-mural play contest, and will also present a three-act play, the title of which has not yet been announced.

Alpha Psi Omega acts as advisor to the dramatic club and in this capacity will supervise several one-act plays.

Leaders' Assembly Held For Freshmen

As is the yearly custom, the Student Council conducted the Student Leaders' Assembly for the Freshmen. The idea was to introduce new students to the Student Leaders whom they must shortly come to know. The assembly was held on Wednesday, September 23, between 2 and 3 o'clock, in the auditorium. It was a bit out of the ordinary, however, in that each Freshman received a complete list of the extra-curricular activities to be found in Drexel, with the names of their respective leaders. Such a plan was felt necessary in that it offered to the Freshmen a comprehensive survey of activities in which they could participate, and enabled them to contact the various leaders of these activities. With Winfield A. Scott, President of the Men's Student Council, presiding, the Assembly ran off very smoothly, and what was most important, with a minimum of discomfort to the Freshmen.

Library Finds Novel Way to Exhibit Books

Triangle to Review New Volumes Before Circulation; Novels and Non-Fiction Display

Starting this term, new books procured for the library will be exhibited on the book shelf from Monday until Friday before they are put into circulation. This enables the students and professors to look over the new books. They may use the books in the library by having them charged at the desk. While they are exhibited, students may put in reserves for the books they wish.

Several volumes on view this week are: "Making the Most of Your Looks," by Stote; "Light Opera and Musical Comedy," by McSpadden; "Your Mexican Kitchen," by Scott; and "The Story of the Human Race," by Henry Thomas. Two interesting books on view last week were "Rockets Through Space," by P. E. Cleator, and "The American Chamber of Horrors," by Ruth de Forrest Lamb, concerning the findings based on violations of the Pure Food and Drug Act. Beside these there are biographies, fiction, science, and many other volumes of interest.

Each week the TRIANGLE will contain the review of a new book.

Organizations to Open New Season

Home Economics and Dietetics Clubs Planning Series of Interesting Events. New Members Invited

The Home Economics Club will open its very interesting year with a buffet supper on October 8 in the women's lounge at 5:30 p. m. All Freshmen are invited and the club is expecting every Home Economics freshman to be present at this affair. The committee in charge is:

Jean Nick, Chairman
Christine Dent
Eleanor Faber.

A membership drive will take place the week following the buffet supper. However, any girl wishing to join may do so before the supper. Mary Dougherty is in charge of enrolling new members.

The program which has been planned for this year is one of the greatest in the history of the Home Economics club. There will be travel talks, food demonstrations, fashion shows, faculty talks, and many other features which are of interest to every home economics student. A Chinese girl will deliver one of the travel talks and her message will be extremely interesting as well as enlightening.

"The Home Economics Wheel," the club paper which was published for the first time last year, was such a huge success that there will be three issues of the paper this year.

Due to increased responsibilities of Miss Chapman, Miss Wiley has been selected as active advisor of the club. It is an added pleasure to have her with us this year to assist Miss Chapman.

The officers of the Home Economics Club for the coming year are:

Kay Grant, President
Betty Griggs, Vice-President
Mary Everett, Treasurer
Hope Morrison, Secretary
Caroline Ramey, Program Chairman
Rosemary Dempsey, Finance Chairman
Jean Nick, Foods Chairman
Christine Dent, Social Chairman.

This year is going to be a big year for the Home Economics Club.

Flowers Displayed At Drexel Club's Exhibit

A flower show was held in the Great Court of Drexel Institute of Technology yesterday, under the auspices of the Drexel Club of Philadelphia.

The court was opened for arrangements of exhibition at 8 A. M. Entries were open to alumni, faculty, students, members of their family, and others connected with Drexel, of amateur rank.

All flowers entered for competition as specimens were grown by the exhibitors. These entries were grouped in various classes to include not only a wide variety of plants and flowers, fruits and vegetables; but also to display many artistic types of arrangements.

Each class had various requirements as to ambition and arrangement, so unless these specifications were noted, the entry in question was disqualified.

The prizes were given in the form of first and second major awards. First and second major awards were made on the basis of points. Each first award in any class counted ten points; each second award, five points; each third award, three points, and each merit award, one point. The person who won the largest number of points received the first major award and the person who won the second largest number of points received the second major award.

1936 Enrollment Shows Big Rise

Largest Entering Class In Five Years Has 565; Upward Trend Reflected

The 1936 September Freshmen enrollment figures, following the rising trend in evidence since 1933, again shows a marked increase over the previous year. Of the total newcomers, numbering 565, 379 are men and the remainder, 186, are women. This constitutes, by a margin of 46, the largest Freshman class in the last five years. Previous to this year, the largest entering class since 1932 numbered 579 who were last year's September Freshmen.

A survey of the September freshmen enrollment for the last five years reveals the fact that the 1933 enrollment was the lowest during this period. The total for that year, 449, increased to 471 the following year. Establishing the present upward trend, the new September students in 1935 numbered 519 with this year's previously mentioned totals favorably maintaining the trend.

Of some interest in this survey is the fact that the proportion of men freshmen to women freshmen has remained much the same. Varying only slightly since 1933, the ratio of September Freshmen has been two men to every woman. In 1932, with 315 men and 186 women the ratio was somewhat less.

Compared with the total enrollment of all students, the upward trend in the Freshmen figures is reflected in a similar rise for the entire school. The total enrollment of 1445 in 1933 has increased to 1502 students this year representing an increase of over 9%. While on this subject it is interesting to note that the enrollment of this year is 114 more than the September enrollment of last year. As stated, there are at present 1502 enrolled in Drexel which does not, of course, include the prospective February registration. When it is compared with the 1552 figure of last year (the September enrollment and additional February enrollment), it is obvious that this year is following the rising enrollment tendency, in as much as the 1502 figure does not represent a total which has computed in it the February enrollment for 1936.

Lois Young Chosen For Laurel Blossom Queen

One of the most outstanding members of the 1937 class was elected by the women of Drexel as their representative princess to the Laurel Blossom Festival held last June. She was Lois Young, popular Tri-Sig member.

Monroe County was the scene where the Laurel Blossom Queen and her attendants held sway at many social functions for an entire week. This is an annual event held every June at the Pocono Mountain resort.

Girls from 18 colleges attended. Representatives were selected at various eastern schools, and they were outstanding in scholarship and extra-curricular activities as well as being the most beautiful.

Several luncheons, teas, dinners and supper dances as well as a formal ball were held in honor of the queen and her attendants. Some of these affairs were open to the public and so the beautiful Pocono Mountain hotels were filled to capacity with people coming to do homage to the royal court.

Faculty Adds Seven New Members To Present Staff of Instructors

MAJOR PAUL STEELE
Asst. Professor of Military Science and Tactics
DR. HENRY WARD (Right)
Asst. Professor Chemical Engineering

Seven new members have been appointed to the faculty of the Institute to meet the growing enrollment, and to replace those faculty members who have retired. Three other members of last year's faculty, who had temporary positions, have been appointed as instructors.

Dr. Henry T. Ward comes to Drexel as Assistant Professor of Chemical Engineering to replace Dr. J. Henry Rushton, who has accepted a position at the University of Michigan. Dr. Ward was a member of the faculty of the Department of Chemical Engineering at Montana State College. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan from which institution he also received his Doctor's degree. He received his M.S. from the University of Wyoming. Dr. Ralph Peck, formerly of the faculty of the University of Minnesota, who has received an appointment, is instructor in Chemical Engineering. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, and received his Ph.D. degree from the same university.

In the department of Business Administration, Mr. Harold J. Budd has been appointed Assistant Professor of Law and Government to replace Professor Altmaier who retired last June. Mr. Budd, who is a graduate of Franklin and Marshall College, received his M.S. from Temple University and an LL.B. from the University of Pennsylvania. He was formerly a member of the faculty of his Alma Mater, acting as Student Secretary and Assistant to the President for four years. Mrs. Flora Binder Jones, who held a temporary position last year, is now an instructor in Secretarial Studies. Mrs. Jones is a graduate of Salem College, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Mrs. Louise C. MacMullan has received a temporary appointment for this quarter in the Business Administration School. Mrs. MacMullan received her B.S. degree from Juniata and an M.S. from the University of Pennsylvania.

In the English department Mr. E. S. Goldsborough, Jr., was appointed instructor to replace Miss Lillian M. Dalton, who retired last June. Mr. Goldsborough graduated and received an M.S. degree from the University of Pennsylvania. Previous to his appointment at Drexel Mr. Goldsborough taught at the University of Pennsylvania, and Valley Forge Academy. Miss Marion Ingersoll has been put on part time schedule in the same department. Miss Ingersoll is a graduate of Wesley College and has an M.S. degree from the University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Mildred Larson, who was temporary last year, received appointment as instructor in Home Economics in charge of the Practice House. Miss Larson is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and also holds an M.S. from that school. She was formerly a member of the faculty of the University of Minnesota. Miss Marjorie Sims, who was absent last year because of illness, has returned to her teaching duties.

To replace Captain F. M. Harris in the department of Military Science and Tactics, the Government has sent Major Paul Steele to Drexel. Major Steele comes from the Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth. (Continued on Page 4, Col. 1)

Frosh Festivities Begin Tomorrow

Program Under Sponsorship of Professor Mains; Jack Kelly and Student Clubs

A great display of the true "Drexel School Spirit" is expected to be shown tomorrow, when "Freshman Day" will be observed at the Drexel Athletic Field.

"Freshman Day" is the result of the cooperation of various seniors representing the student honor societies. The program as outlined at assembly last Wednesday is:

Pep rally for all freshmen Wednesday. On Saturday freshmen will wear large buttons at the game and occupy the East stands. Bill Gill will lead in the cheers. During the half the freshmen will march behind the band until they reach mid-field. There they will face the Drexel stands and cheer the upper-classes. After this cheer is acknowledged the whole student body will sing "Hail Drexel Institute." The cheerleaders will lead in the School Song.

The purpose of this demonstration is to interest the student body in the athletic activities of the school, and to show the team that "we're behind them."

The Senior Committee feels that if the students cooperate with them, the afternoon will be made enjoyable to everyone.

The members of the Committee are: Jack Powischill of the Blue Key; Alberta Gaven of the Key & Triangle; Winfield Scott of the Student Council; Herbert Raynes of the Varsity Club. This committee was arranged by the efforts of Professor Mains of the faculty and Jack Kelly of the Gold Key.

Alpha Sigs To Present Annual Dance Next Week

The Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority will open the sorority social season with its annual "Harvest Moon Dance" on October 10th in the Great Court. The music for this special event will be furnished by the "Harfordians," that well-known local orchestra to whose melodies many of us danced just recently in the Ocean City Yacht Club.

Do you remember the dark blue sky and twinkling silver stars of last year? Once again the Alpha Sigs are offering Drexel students the opportunity of dancing under a midnight sky with a full moon and brilliant scattered stars to the strains of smooth music. The decorations will be more beautiful than ever before.

Clare Warren and her committee are arranging a lucky number dance for this enjoyable evening too. The lucky boy and girl will both receive prizes. Mr. and Mrs. Crook, Miss MacIntyre, Miss Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. Henneberg, Mr. and Mrs. Wagner, and Mr. and Mrs. Goldsborough are invited to be the chaperones.

Be sure and buy your ticket for this first sorority dance from any member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority. They will be looking for you at nine o'clock in the Great Court on Saturday, October tenth.

Kickoff Dance Opens Drexel's Social Season

Hen Kelly, Drexel Alumnus, Presents Swing Music For Annual Frolic By D-Men

The Drexel social season will be opened tomorrow night when the Varsity Club presents its 7th Annual Kickoff Dance. This year's affair features Hen Kelly and his Swing Band playing from 8:30 to 1:00 o'clock in the Great Court. Kelly, a Drexel Alumnus, presents his wares at Drexel for the first time.

In presenting Hen Kelly and his band to Drexel students for the first time, it is felt sure that his swing music will be enjoyed by everyone who attends. Some might remember Hen Kelly as an undergraduate for he graduated in 1934. Kelly was a football player while a student. He later became president of the well-known Las Vegas orchestra for some time, and attaining a great reputation while with that outfit. Kelly, in composing a band, has picked men from two of Philadelphia's leading orchestras, Roger Kent's and Las Vegas, choosing the most outstanding men from each of these orchestras and combining them into his own swing combination.

For years the Varsity Club dance has been traditionally the first dance of the Drexel social season, and has always met with great success. This year's dance is the seventh annual Varsity Club dance, and, according to Herb Raynes, president of the Varsity Club, the dance committee has done excellent work in arranging for the dance to repeat its former successes. The Great Court will be properly arranged to accommodate the dancers, and will again provide ideal atmosphere for dancing.

Dragons Please Halas In Beating Juniata, 34 to 7; Prospects Good

Carrying on where they left off last year against Delaware, Drexel turned back an ancient gridiron rival Saturday to inaugurate the tenth year of Athletic Director Walter H. Halas. It was a triumph fitting the occasion, and Juniata, with the identical team that held Drexel to a tie last season, was not victimized, though the 34-7 score might indicate such.

"The squad measured up nearly to expectations," Halas said, reviewing the tussle, "but there are many faults to be corrected and it's far from the form it will have to reach before meeting the stronger competition on the schedule. The hard tackling and blocking pleased me more than anything else," he added, "and not the least encouraging fact is the replacement strength. For the first time I have several boys who can be inserted into the line-up and be depended upon to carry on where the regular left off. Bill Hardwick of last year's frosh is a capable understudy for Joe Rhile at the pivot position, and the boy is an aggressive player who can plug up a hole in our forward wall with the best of them. Jack Bador and Horace Brosious are the reserve guards making things interesting for the ever reliable seniors, 'Bick' Stevens and 'Clint' Smullen."

Here the coach paused and seemed to grow thoughtful, remembering, no doubt, the excellent guarding those veterans have done in seasons past. "At any rate," he continued, "the reserve strength is most gratifying, and it helps a lot to keep rotating the players as needs arise.

"Unlike previous seasons the Drexel backfield problem will be whom, out of the many, to start, and not where can I find enough to make a commendable quartette to put in the game. Kenny Rodgers gets the call at the quarterback post, close pressed by Harry Wolf, the fleet stepper from Allentown. There isn't much to choose between Curry, Lignelli, Sid Stephens, and Baker, for the fullback job. 'Bake' has had plenty of experience, Dave can tote the ball, Lig is good on defense, while Stevie can do everything and requires only experience. Foxie and Walt Ehmling will take care of the half-back situation and if we get the blocking they can go."

There is the 1936 team, a club that will fight, and the athletic directors certainly hope for your support. The next game is with St. John's of Annapolis upon our home field at 46th and Haverford.

Campus Electioneering

WITH the nominations for the Men's class officers last Wednesday, the open season for political deals and connivances is officially heralded. The backers of an entry have to seek the support of other potent nominees and draw up a party, while the nominees assume the attitude of a supposedly disinterested spectator. Or perhaps, the election may be one of those rare cases which is free from the influence of any large pressure groups and develops into a mere popularity contest.

There are enough different points of contention as to how the affairs of the class should be managed—which probably centers upon the spending of the class dues,—to produce a lively and intelligent campaign.

So let the candidate drop the "I don't-care-whether-you-vote-for-me-or-not" front and go out personally and do some electioneering.

Let him state the way in which his class dance will be run. Let him tell about the frequency and the type of other class function he would have if elected.

Let him specify whether he favors spending a large portion of the class dues during the year or preserving it for future use. Then vote, watch, and remember.

A Good Start

THE MEN'S STUDENT COUNCIL of Drexel got started this year with an innovation that presages great activity to come. By mailing out to each individual student, except Freshmen, a copy of the Constitution of the Student Council with a letter urging each recipient to come out and vote, the idea has been firmly established that the Council this year is both an active and energetic one. This is a new step in the history of Student Council, and the goal is a worthy one. It is hoped that each student will come to feel his responsibility to vote and to do so intelligently. As the letter points out, there is much money entrusted to the various officers elected by the student body, and it seems to be bearing fruit in the increasing school spirit which even at this early date is manifesting itself.

To The Freshmen

IT has been estimated that this year there will be approximately six hundred thousand pounds of brains in the schools of higher education. As you, the Freshmen, have now joined this group it would be fitting that you now plan how your four or five years at Drexel are to be spent.

Will you make the most of what Drexel has to offer you? The professors and various courses are here to help you obtain one of the best educations. However, be careful not to study all the time, remember outside activities are part of your education. You will find an outlet for your energies and abilities in extra-curricular activities as well as your studies.

Two things must be learned in college if you have not already learned them; first, learn how to study, and second, budget your time. If you do not waste time during the day you will find time to participate in the many activities which Drexel offers its students aiming for an all-around education.

Perhaps someone has already told you that Drexel has forty-eight recognized organizations. Take an active part in a few of these organizations and support the rest. Remember, Freshmen, these activities are your activities. The upper classmen will soon be leaving and you must take their place. The success and continued life of Drexel activities depend upon you.

College Humor

JUST how much a sense of humor can be developed and what steps should be taken to make full use of the funnybone is now a controversy in the University of Florida. This Southern institution has awakened interest in the collegiate world by introducing in its curricula a course in humor, and has set precedent in openly giving three credits for merely going to class to be entertained by a comic professor. It is rumored that over twenty Oxford students have enrolled, and are already pleased with results.

However, the University of Florida no doubt feels that there are so many serious studies in American Colleges that students have forgotten how to enjoy good humor. The future Will Rogers and Irvin Cobbs choosing the subject are required to take an exam before and after taking the course to give some indications as to how much humor they have developed.

Here in the North, we have had humor courses for some time, although we still preserve college dignity by insisting upon terming them English 21, B.A. 33, or Chemistry 2. The results are, in either case, the same.

Campus Capers

By ELEANOR WRAY

As most of you know, this column is devoted to interesting and amusing incidents in and about other colleges. This year the same policy will be carried out, but in addition we shall from time to time include Drexel notes.

The Dragons got off to a good start last Saturday with a win over Juniata. Juniata has yet to win a football game from Drexel, though they have defeated us in other sports.

At Purdue, a society known as the "Stray Greeks" has been started. It is composed of transfer students who were members of Greek organizations not represented at Purdue.

Gatekeepers at Ohio State have a novel method of deciding whether you are sober enough to enter the Stadium. If you can wiggle your thumbs in unison, you're O.K. Otherwise you can watch the game from the treetops.

Opening gun of the '36 football season at the University of Cincinnati was a bonfire pow-wow near the campus the night before, thus imparting some of the old fighting spirit. We should like to see this precedent taken up by us and made a regular campus tradition.

It may all be rationalization, but it will make any college reader feel good inside to learn that a psychologist at Oregon State University has just declared that "B" students are the most successful. Those that get "A" continually, he said, are generally the meek and submissive type that professors can convince of anything. "C" people, he declared, are mostly the independent and defiant type.

Did You Know?

The University of California football stadium rests directly over a "fault" which could cause its complete destruction during an earthquake.

Colby College in Maine may move from its 118-year old site to a new location two miles away.

Spain's Revolution is evidently making good publicity, for statistics show that the study of Spanish is rising rapidly in importance and popularity in most U. S. colleges.

The men at Gettysburg outnumber the co-eds about five to one. However, since this is just the second year that co-eds have been admitted, it's not a fair comparison. And then there is the Drexel gal who wants to go to Gettysburg

"Find Cassandra" is the byword at Cincinnati. It seems that no one knows the identity of the contributor to the "Letters-to-the-Editor" column. The editor leads the search for this mysterious individual who writes such interesting (very interesting) articles.

Pitt has just commemorated its traditional ceremony which opens college life for the freshmen. Each freshman woman carries a candle or lantern and the procession climbs the numerous hills on which the greater part of the college is located. Having seen the ceremony, I know that it certainly does something toward making a first good impression.

Interfraternity horseshoe pitching has already begun at Rensselaer Polytech. The fraternities are divided into leagues, and, at the finish of the competition, a trophy is awarded.

Alumni Highlights

"TAN" RALSTON

Alexander Ralston, better known as "Tan", upon graduation of the Mechanical Engineering course last June, directly became associated with the Wm. M. Anderson Co., contractors, who specialize in all mechanical work in the construction of buildings, large and small. Their work includes process piping,—oil lines, vacuum piping, etc. "Tan", a former captain of the baseball team at Drexel, who could be counted on to play a crack-up game at second base, continues his career along this line with the Narberth batters.

A Freshman's Epistle

Dear Mom,
I have been having a lot of fun down here at school since I wrote you last week. The place in which I am living is called a Fraternity House, and is not what you called it in your last letter—all the girls live in a place called the Women's Dormitory.

Drexel seems like a very nice school, but they have a lot of funny customs down here. There is an art gallery at school that is kept locked, and a museum which has nothing in it except a burglar alarm. The show cases that belong in the museum are all in the court, and anyone who wanted anything could just take it out of the case. I guess this is done to save the wear and tear on the burglar alarm. Some of the upper classmen tell me that the antiquated members of the faculty are going to be placed in the museum, but I guess they are just kidding me, because the museum is not that large.

I was a little disappointed when I found out that Drexel has no campus, but the fellows up at the house tell me that after you get used to the school and its routine, there is something about it that makes you want to stay. I guess they know what they are talking about, because most of them are taking seven years to complete a five year engineering course.

Somebody down here who call themselves the Varsity Club are giving a dance on Saturday night, and I aim to go, if I can get one of these city girls to go with me. I think it will be something like the dances we have in Jake Peter's barn, except that there will be more people at the dance, and maybe the orchestra will be bigger.

I had to join what they call the R. O. T. C. Unit, which is something like our boy scout troop at home. I was given a uniform with a funny hat, a gun, and I have to go out to the football field every Friday afternoon, and spend one hour walking around. I wouldn't mind this so much if my pants weren't so darn tight. The man who gave me the uniform promised to give me a bigger pair of pants, but he said I would be a problem for Omar the Tentmaker, whoever he is.

I got my clean clothing that you sent and thanks for the cakes and things.

This is all I can write now because I have to go over to school and take a physical examination.
Your ever loving son,
Chesterfield.

BETTY-GO-ROUND

POMES

Daylight saving has gone out The days are getting short Drexelians are a planning for A dance down in the Court. The dorm will hold its Open House The football gods appear. The kick-off dance is not far off (No free ad this—you hear!) But what I really aim to do Is tell the frosh "Have fun" For these are symptoms that my dears Your college life's begun!

Days with classes, work and such Are pleasant things I don't mind much But evening times when room mates date And call down hall ways "Don't be late!"

I feel so sick, so dull and drear To know that you art not down here I think of empty months with pain To pass ere I see you again These morbid thoughts—no tune; no rhyme Erase our happy summer time I ask as in despair I roam What thoughts are yours, my love, at home???

WHO was the tall veddy gudgeous freshman girl, who when fixed on a blind date with a veddy short-not-good-looking-at-all-Drexel lad said, "You're Not The Kind Of A Boy For A Girl Like Me???"

BUT who was the Drexel lad who, after dating one of our very lovely freshmen for the first time, called her and said, "Did I Remember To Tell You I Adore You?"

FAMILIAR scenes like the reception hall at the dorm and the Penn laundry truck outside and last year's freshmen being this year's Sophs and the Pi Kaps sitting on the top porch step and all the lights in the Delta Sig house on and no curtains and everybody screaming "Hellooooooo" at everybody else made us realize that we were back again—and glad too!

IT'S either Powishell's idea of a joke or Fred Cramer's far sightedness into next June's graduation fees, but we heard Fred was trying to sell some of the frosh a membership to the Pipe Club which grants holders of said membership the privilege of smoking in the Men's Lounge. He also had on sale reserved seats in the Grill. Why, Frederick!!

HONEST to goodness, we saw it ourselves. At the corner of 10th and Market was a little colored girl selling catnip and on the box was printed: "CATNIP — GOOD FOR CATS AND BABIES."

WE were discussing movies with Harold Myers, that very nice young man who is president of the Awful Upsilon Mu's. We were picking out the future movies soon to put in their appearance and which ones we were waiting to see. "Well," said the writer of this so-called column, "they all sound good, but I'm waiting for My Man Godfrey." And we still can't convince Harold that it was the picture we were talking about!!

NOT only is Jimmy Haislip Leslie Howard's double back at D. I. T. but now we have a freshman at the dorm who looks s'much like Maureen O'Sullivan.

WE noted the following in the Ursinus Weekly:

"Any freshman caught playing 'knock, knock' will be sentenced to the torture chamber of Brodbeck dungeon." We have taken it upon ourselves to reword the above as follows: "Any freshman caught playing 'Knock, knock' will be sentenced to an extra term of Chemistry." That oughtta hold 'em!

Kitty's Kollege Korner

Happy college days to you, mes amies, and a merely welcome to all of you new readers. It is nice to have you accompany the "korner" on its shopping tours and to meander around town to do a little eavesdropping while Dame Fashion talks. We hope you like her!

Hats this fall season are delightfully different and interesting. Feathers and velvet trimmings are popular. One model is a black felt turban, stitched on the left side and providing a place for a gay red, blue and green feather to curl around a high top crown. Another turban comes from Agnes—black felt with a trim of soft twisted velvet around the crown. Bonwit Tellers is displaying a small black hat reminding the "korner" somewhat of the now forgotten Eugenie style of some years ago, the chapeau, with a slight dip over the right eye was entirely covered with soft black plumes. Suzy presents for our approval a small hat with a veil hanging from the crown down the side of the crown.

From head to feet—Shoes that are trying to come in but not meeting with so much approval are the little numbers that creep up over the ankle—a return to the old high toppers of our younger days.

The hem lines this fall offer an unusual variety in dress trims. Scallops around the bottom cut the monotonous plain hem-line and blend in with the neck and cuff trims. Bands of brilliant colors bind the dress edges while similar bands go around a closely fitting high neck and tightly fitted cuffs. Schiaparelli's "danger red" is as prominent to fashion this fall as colored leaves are to fall trees. The contrast with black is most interesting.

Aspiration for line has come from the Napoleonic period, to the seductive glamor of old Spain. Accessories are prominent from gloves, hand bags—down to jewelry—in accenting the simple dress lines.

Skirts are new, they come either slim as a pencil with a shocking slit—or with a full swirl—so well shown in our Vogue.

Bustles are back—in evening coats and to a lesser degree on dresses.

Drexel Overwhelms Juniata, 34-7, In Opening Grid Battle

Passing Attack Results In Three Dragon Counters

Curry, Rodgers, and B. Stevens Score; Outplayed In Every Quarter to Lose By Largest Score Ever Rolled Up In Series Sophomores Star

Coach Walter Halas unveiled the Dragons' current edition of a football machine before a hostile crowd of a thousand Huntingtonites. Much to the displeasure of the hometowners and the representatives of the local institution, Juniata, Drexel walked off with the long end of a 34-7 score. A quartette of Sophomores playing their first game in Dragons' livery served notice that they were very much present and to be accounted for in future skirmishes. "Ed" Ott, filling ex-Captain Hoff's shoes, demonstrated that our left tackle is no thoroughfare for opposing clubs. Another newcomer, Ed Hale, who flanked "Ottie," provided able assistance to the weighty tackle. "Kenny" Rodgers served notice that the Dragons are going to be a smart team this season, while "Ken" is masterminding, at any rate. Walter Ehmling provided encouragement for the coaching staff with expert running. "Walt's" specialty seems to be spinners.

Juniata Fumbles
Juniata, winning the toss, elected to receive. Stevens' boot traveled to the opposition's goal line where it was captured by Weaver, Indian halfback, and returned to his own twenty. Here a swarm of Dragons knocked him down hard, and in the excitement the ball rolled free only to be captured by an alert Drexelite. "Foxie" picked up 5 yards over right tackle and Curry knifed off ten more through the left side of the line. The Indians braced momentarily and bottled up little "Foxie," but on the next play Dave crashed through the center for the counter. Stevens' placement added the extra point. For the remainder of the quarter Dragon backs riddled the Juniata line but were unable to dent the scoring column until near the end of the period. Harry Fox slipped through the left side for thirty yards. Ehmling picked up twenty more on a spinner through the same place. Stopped on the right by the fierce charges of the Indian forwards, Ehmling added twenty more on another spin through left tackle. Finally, he twirled a pass to Rodgers who galloped the rest of the way for another score. Stevens' boot failed. In the second session Walt fumbled after a nifty runback of a punt, and Jenkins, Juniata back, opened up an offense of his own. He skirted right end for a first down on the Dragons' 45. Our forwards braced and forced them to kick, and after an exchange of punts it was Drexel's ball at midfield, netting a nice gain for our booters. Near the end of the quarter Baker, substitute fullback, chucked a pass to Ken Rodgers, who weaved through the opposing secondary for the score. Fredricks added the extra point. Score at half time: Drexel 20, Juniata 0.

Stevens Scores
Coach Swartz' men opened up the second half with a furious flurry of passes most of which did nothing more than annoy the Drexel backfield. One, however, from Geiser to Pelka, was good for 25 yards and a frown from our head mentor. As the third period waned 'Bick' Stevens decided that it was time for a man to crash the scoring column. "Bick" created a hole right through the middle of the Juniata forward wall and blocked a punt. Scooping the oval up, he cut loose with some really fast stepping and walked right away from the opposing backs. To cap the play he added the extra point. A pass from Ehmling to Curry accounted for our last score. Walter's toss netted 20 and Dave added 15 more with some nice shifty broken field running. "Stevie" again converted. As the final period progressed the Indians began to click, and with the aid of two complete passes and a penalty for unnecessary roughness, possessed the ball on our own yard stripe. Jenkins crashed our tackle for the lonely Juniata tally. As the final quarter ended the Dragons were again on the march with Sid Stephens doing the heavy ball toting.

Line-up:
Drexel: Conard, Ott, Stevens, Rhile, Smullen, Fitzgerald, Hale, Ehmling, Fox, Curry.
Juniata: Cook, Hinkle, Friend, Lawson, Andrews, Garner, Weber, Hahn, Weaver, Roth, Jenkins.

Touchdowns—Drexel: Curry 2, Rodgers 2, Stevens. Juniata: Jenkins. Referee—Williams. Umpire—Beck. Linesman—Killingier.

Candidates for assistant manager of the football team report to Drexel Field daily. Sophomores and Pre-Juniors are eligible. Roy Gibson, Manager.

Hockey Captain

Hockey Camp for Dragonettes Held Near Mt. Pocono

Players Under Tutelage of 'All-English Coaches'; Five Games Listed on This Year's Roster

The hockey season this year opened a week early. Miss Landis, Alberta Gavin, Eleanor Coffman, Georgetta Marlor, Christine and June Moore, Elizabeth Hemming, Helen Craemer, Mary Ashelman, Wally Diehm, Bobby Weiss, and Marion Harmer went to hockey camp about two miles from Mt. Pocono where, under the supervision of English coaches, they learned much about hockey that they had not previously known.

The camp was run by Miss Appleby, an elderly English woman, who was one of the first women to introduce hockey to the United States. Playing under her supervision made the girls realize that she knew a great deal about the game.

Besides Miss Appleby, they had two All-English players for coaches, the Misses Dickinson and Denton, who had the game down to a real science. Various members of the All-American hockey team came up during the week and scrimmaged with them in several games; and after the sessions, the fact that they were all a bit green at hockey, was well imprinted on their minds.

The daily schedule was a rather easy one, though they all managed to get so stiff and sore that instead of looking like a group of up and coming athletes, they looked more like members of a home for the crippled. Every morning they had stick work, theory, and then a practice game. Some of the more ambitious players took up lacrosse, but most of them found that it was not necessary to find any more muscles to get sore than those which they already had. In the afternoon they played hockey again and had stickwork. Often some of the better players in the camp would give them an exhibition game. Then they really saw some of the All-English and American players in action, and such action! When they ran, they reminded one of these streamline trains that seem to mold into one dim object and fly through the air.

At night they had an exhibition of various points that they were to take up the next day. The surroundings were particularly nice. They were up on a plateau two thousand feet high, and though there had been a terrific drought all the summer, the minute they hit the place they managed to have quite a bit of cloudy and rainy weather. There was a large lake for swimming and canoes were available for all. One of the favorite hangouts for the Drexel girls and many others was the lodge. On the ground floor was a long living room, and above this was the dining room. Three times a day this living room was jammed, and when the dinner bell rang, it was like trying to find your way through a crowd on Chestnut street at Christmas time to get to the dining room. Yet a common saying that one heard after every meal was, "Oh, if they wouldn't give us so much to eat!"

So the week ended at hockey camp and a weary but happy group turned toward Philadelphia with high hopes that Drexel's hockey season will be a very successful one. After a week at camp, our girls are now playing hard and earnestly out at 46th and Haverford where they are helping the rest of last year's squad and the twenty freshmen who were not fortunate enough to be under Miss Appleby's direction at hockey camp. This year there are no halfway measures on the team. Instead, these girls who are under the leadership of Coach Landis and Captain Sally Hall are all pepped up and ready to fight and win the games of this season. So far, our Dragonettes have only a tentative schedule which is as follows:

Mt. St. Joseph's—October 24—Away
Rosemont—Week of Nov. 1—Home
Ursinus—November 7—Away
University of Penna.—Week of Nov. 18—Home
Beaver—November 24—Away

More about the hockey squad will follow next week, and when a Dragonette gets the ball this season, it won't stop until it is in the goal. With the support and loyalty of the Dragons and Drexelites, the girls will swing the stick, hit the ball, and roll up the score.

Dragon Machine Tackles Johnnies For Home Opener

Out For Second Win of Season; Coach Halas Will Start Combination of Veterans Against Newest Grid Rivals Donaldson to Play

The victory minded Dragons will engage the St. John's College football aggregation on the home field at 46th and Haverford Streets this coming Saturday afternoon. Coach Halas' boys are all set after the 34 to 7 tune up with the high stepping Indians of Juniata, and confidently expect to add the "Johnnies" scalp to the right side of the ledger. Reports from the Annapolis institution are along the same line and the general feeling is that Drexel will prove to be just another ball game to Coach "Dutch" Lenz' minions. The St. John's team from all accounts has a stubborn defense that turned the heavier Maryland University team away from the burnt orange and black goal line in last Saturday's engagement several times before yielding to the superior power of the University boys. Coach Lenz expects his club to correct the mistakes made in this contest and be all set to give the Philadelphia team a lesson in the fundamentals of the game. Lambros, Buck, Hamman, and Lathrop comprise the visitors' backfield, and according to the scouting done these gentlemen are hard runners who can carry the ball if given the opportunity by the blockers.

Coach Halas intends to stand pat on the team that defeated Juniata last Saturday with the exception that the veteran Matt Donaldson will take over the end position formerly handled by Ed Hale, a promising sophomore. Halie needs more experience as yet, and the veteran, Donaldson, is counted upon to steady the team. Harry Fox, sensational Left Half, is ready to go and will occupy his usual place in the line-up from which he is expected to furnish some more of the well known "Foxie" fireworks. Dave Curry will start in the fullback berth and this elongated young man can carry the ball with the best of them. Ken Rodgers will supply the brains for the boys and assist Walt Ehmling with the rough work in opening up the holes for the other backs. Walt is also a ball toter of no mean repute. The ever dependable Stevens and Smullen will hold down the guard posts and furnish lots of trouble for the "Johnnies'" forward wall. These lads have a habit of playing in the other club's backfield which, in seasons past, has proved very disconcerting to Dragon opponents. Joe Rhile, Capt. Fitzgerald, Elsie Conard and Ed Ott comprise the rest of the starters who will carry Drexel's colors tomorrow. As the coach has often remarked: "Gentlemen, remember that you can't win today's game with last week's clippings." Let's get conscious.

The point system is used in Drexel for rewards. Five hundred points entitles a girl to a charm. A blazer with the Drexel emblem on it is the reward for one thousand points. By attaining these points, students are not only gaining recognition for themselves, but also paving the way for greater recognition for women's sports at Drexel.

Rifle Squad Under Way

Last year, under the capable guidance of Captain Harris, the rifle team returned a splendid record, winning five out of six shoulder-to-shoulder matches, and posted a mark of 1332 in the Intercollegiate. This year, Captain Harris has been assigned another post, leaving his achievements for the new coach, Major Hibbard, to uphold.

Major Hibbard has lost little time in swinging into action. He has already four-score of students signed up trying for the team. These try-outs and practices will start this week. The men met last Wednesday, and the women met the same day at a later hour, while the men in industry will meet on Monday, October the fifth.

Major Hibbard will follow the same plans as Captain Harris. There will be four squads of the men's varsity, women's varsity, sophomore squad, and the freshman squad. The varsity of this year will most likely consist of the remaining varsity and last year's sophomore team.

N. C. A. A. Requests Clean-up of Athletics

Major Griffith Desires Honesty, First; Suggests Colleges Openly Admit When They Pay Athletes

The necessity for a thorough "Clean up" in College Athletics is described in an official Memorandum sent by Major John L. Griffith, President of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, to the Presidents of N. C. A. A. Colleges and Universities.

Major Griffith states that it is an impossibility to educate college men in the principles of honesty and integrity if those same men know that the college is buying athletes and conniving at this practice. The Major further states that whenever a College which in the past has enjoyed athletic prosperity enters upon a period of athletic depression there is a temptation to effect a recovery by short-cut methods. The method invariably proposed consists of having a few mercenaries to win football games for Alma Mater. Those who suggest or are responsible for putting into practice this method offer the excuse that others are cheating and therefore it is necessary to adopt practical methods designed to result in football victories.

As a remedy to this condition Major Griffith suggests that the colleges openly admit or advertise the fact that the players on the college team have been paid for their service, and schedule games only with similar institutions.

The N. C. A. A. was established in 1905 for the study of the various phases of competitive athletics, physical training, and allied problems, the establishment of standards for amateur sports, and the promotion of the adoption of recommended measures to the end that colleges and universities of the United States may maintain their athletic activities on a high plane and may make efficient use of sports for character building.

Dragon Leader

CAPTAIN "AL" FITZGERALD

Captain "Al" Fitzgerald of the '36 edition of the Dragons holds down the right tackle post. One of the famous iron men of two years back, Al is no newcomer to a varsity berth and can always be counted on for that extra "zing" when the going gets rough. "Fitzie" is a product of Northeast High School of Philadelphia and one of "Gloomy Gus" Geiges' proteges, which to followers of local sports means that the boy can take care of himself when opposing ball toters slant off his tackle. Our captain is an aggressive player making up for lack of weight by the extra push which keeps a fellow driving the whole ball game and not taking a breather now and then. The consensus of the team's opinion indicates that "Al" is also an inspiring leader, who not only can play a hard game, but can demand fair play from the officials.

"The team is all set," states Al, "come out and watch us go. We've a veteran club, with a couple of good sophomores to keep us oldsters on the jump. Maybe we won't be undefeated, but the other clubs are going to know they have met a flock of dragons who are plenty tough."

GRIDIRON BITS

The Drexel Dragons opened their season last week with a decisive 34 to 7 win. They completely routed Juniata's Indians, outplaying their heavier opponents in every branch of the game.

Led by Captain Al Fitzgerald, Coach Halas started a team composed of seven veterans and four members of last year's freshman eleven.

Six of the seven lettermen, who started the Juniata game, are playing their last year at Drexel. They are Bick Stevens, Clint Smullen, Capt. Fitzgerald, Joe Rhile, Dave Curry, and Harry Fox. Elwood Conard, the other starting letterman, is a Pre-Junior.

Four Sophomores started their first varsity game, Ken Rodgers and Walt Ehmling in the backfield, with Ed Ott and Ed Hale on the line.

Drexel took advantage of a Juniata fumble and scored on the fifth play of the game. Curry scored the first touchdown on a short buck through the line.

Three of the touchdowns were scored on forward passes. Two were taken by Rodgers and one by Curry. All were thrown by Ehmling.

The lone Juniata touchdown, which came in the fourth quarter, was the result of a penalty which placed Drexel back on the one yard line.

This year Coach Halas has a larger number of capable replacements than he has had in previous years.

This week the Dragon has a hard opponent in St. John's of Annapolis. Reports indicate that Drexel will again be outweighed. Come out and give the team your support.

With the Pen That Students Rate Highest BY ACTUAL VOTE

Invented by a College Professor to Bring You Higher Grades

A college professor noticed that poor grades are often due not to brains running low but to pens running dry!

So he worked out an utterly different and basically better pen principle—and Geo. S. Parker engineered it to perfection.

Thus came the revolutionary Parker sacless Vacumatic that has superseded every old-style pen—both sac-type and sacless.

Recently the student editors of 30 college papers asked 4,699 of their readers, "Which make of pen do you own? Which pen do you prefer?"

To both questions more students answered "Parker," than any other two makes of pens COMBINED!

One reason is that the Vacumatic ink supply is EVER-VISIBLE, the ENTIRE length of the barrel. It isn't merely last-drop visibility—doesn't merely show when your pen is empty. It shows days ahead WHEN IT'S RUNNING LOW, so it can't run dry against your will.

The Vacumatic's working parts are sealed in the top WHERE INK CAN NEVER TOUCH THEM—can never decompose them. That's why this miracle pen is GUARANTEED mechanically perfect.

And the Parker Vacumatic has no rubber ink sac or lever filler—hence has room for 102% more ink without increase in size!

To Make Any Pen Clean Itself—Try this utterly different writing ink—Parker Quink—an ink that dissolves deposits left in pens by ordinary inks. Quink cleans a pen as it writes—a Parker or any other pen. Ends pen-clogging. Get Quink at any store selling ink, 15c and 25c.

Elston Chooses Lexerd Staff For Silver Anniversary Issue

This coming year the "Lexerd" will drop its twenty-fifth grain of sand in the hour glass of time, in commemoration of its Silver Anniversary, the "Lexerd" presents an episode that traces the memorable history of Drexel Institute, from its foundation by Anthony J. Drexel in 1891, to its present day status in the highest ranks of technical institutions. Also an outstanding photographic representation of the world's progress in these twenty-five years, in which the march of time in the fields of Science, Education, Exploration, Commerce, and Industry, is depicted in a real life manner that will make this yearbook outstanding.

The "Lexerd" Staff, through its Editor-in-Chief, Charles W. Elston, makes an appeal to all members of the Senior Class, quote:

"The 'Lexerd' Staff is merely a group of representatives of the Senior Class. Its responsibility is to publish a yearbook; but, the responsibility rests not only with the Staff, but with the whole Senior Class."

With a special appeal Mr. Elston continues:

"We, of the staff, make an earnest request for cooperation. By cooperation we mean the willingness to have individual photographs taken promptly, and the reports of the activities of the societies to be turned in by their respective officers at the earliest possible moment, and to respond to the request of information in regard to personal activities."

"Without this cooperation, the staff has little chance of issuing a yearbook of distinction."

Mr. Elston is very sincere in his requests. In all class spirit and fairness-mindedness every member of the class of '37 should take their personal obligations on their own shoulders, and help to publish a yearbook that will be the equal of any "Lexerd" previously issued.

The Staff wishes to announce that the "Lexerd" will be distributed not later than the week of June 5, 1937.

The official staff for the '36-'37 "Lexerd" is:

CHIT-CHAT ON BOOKS

A more serious-minded book for those who are interested in business and finance is "The Lords of Creation" by Frederick Lewis Allen, who wrote also "Only Yesterday." "The Lords of Creation" is an attempt to tell the story of the immense financial and corporate expansion which took place in the United States between the depression of the 1890's and the crisis of the 1930's. How profoundly it altered the circumstances and quality of American life, why and how it ended in collapse, and what the collapse meant to us are phases which are explained. Questions concerning our economic status have been uppermost in the minds of intelligent Americans for the past years and this book is the first which has told this story as a whole, with an eye not only to the economic facts and figures but also to their dramatic and human interest and their social significance. If you are intelligent and want to know about the economic standing of the country in which you live, read this book.

To the women students: may I suggest a book which is very helpful and very useful? "Making the Most of Your Looks" by Dorothy Stole is an utterly fascinating book and contains such chapters as carriage, hats, the average woman, the tall woman, the stout woman and her individual problems, the business girl, color choices, heart-to-heart talks on good health, care of skin, exercise, and general beauty hints. Every girl and woman wants to be happy, doesn't she? And she also has a right to attractiveness. Since good looks are a primary asset to happiness, read this book and learn how to make the most of your looks, and incidentally be happy.

To the men students: a new enlarged edition of the late book "The Correct Thing"—a guide book of etiquette for young men—by William O. Stevens. Do you want to avoid being laughed at, being made conspicuous by your little mistakes in manners and behavior? Read this book carefully. Mr. Stevens has written this book after years of study with boys and young men—he found that they did not know how to conduct themselves at a dance, football games, meals, in meetings, etc., so this book was written to fulfill these needs. Every young man who wants to win the respect and popularity due him can have them as a reward for good manners.

A more modern book, and more to the point for college men, is the book, just out by the above author, called "The Right Thing"—how to be decent though modern. The book is written with frankness and sincerity on the subject of morals—loyalty, sportsmanship, honesty, smoking, drinking, sex friendliness, and many other subjects which are discussed as man to man. The style of the book is light, with touches of humor. The book was fundamentally written for college men—so, read it.

These six books, which I have gone over so inadequately, are only a few of the many which are to appear on the shelves within the next few days. Look for them—read them—talk about them. They're all good and you'll profit by reading them in your leisure time.

DORM NEWS

At a meeting held in the dormitory last week, Kitty Shaver, President of Women's Student Government, announced the appointment of various committees for the present school year.

Those included in the social committee are: Betty Petty, Chairman, Eleanor Wray, Dorothy Page, Betty Wolfe, and Gertrude McRae. The dining room committee includes Peg Peeling, Chairman, Anne Condit, Marian Marsh, Kitty Genetti, and Mary Ruth Sharkey. Marjorie Saxson was named Chairman of the Freshman Advisory Board, the other members being Betty Mitchell, Virginia Bounds, Jeanette Kessler, and Eleanor Spencer.

The Dormitory Board which was elected last Spring consists of Betty Wolfe, Betty Mitchell, Mary Lou Overholser, Jeanette Kessler, Peg Aimetti, and Marian Jackson.

All Freshmen women in the dorm have been assigned to a member of the Advisory Board for instruction in the dormitory rules and precedents.

Several changes in the rules were announced, most important of which is the fact that Seniors now have a twelve o'clock permission every night instead of the usual three permissions a week. Walking and riding privileges for all girls have been extended until eight o'clock. This year there is to be no drug hour, thus taking away one of the Freshmen duties. However, the Freshmen still have their living room and telephone duties besides other minor ones.

The Social Committee announces that November 6th is the date for the fall formal at the dormitory. Something new and different is promised for favors. Commuters as well as dorm girls are invited.

Miss Crawley, new Directress of Women at the dormitory, has instituted a series of informal teas on every Monday afternoon from four till six. At the tea which was held last Monday, Betty Mitchell poured and Betty Wolfe was hostess. It is hoped that the new girls will take advantage of these teas.

FRESHMEN CAMP AT OOKANIKON; Y. W. ENTERTAINS GIRLS AT LODGE

As the sun sank lower in the sky in late afternoon, and only one event, the shuttle-relay, was left on the program, a tense drama was enacted on the sands of Oockanikon. Two teams, who were far superior to all the others, had struggled through the strenuous events and were separated by a lone point. Seven teams lined up for the start of the final event, seven eager speedsters sprinted as one as the starters gave the signal, and after the anchor man crossed the finish line in a jumbled mass, the runner-up group merged with the necessary point to produce something new in American Olympic history, a dead heat. Coach Leonard hastily checked and rechecked the tallies, and finally retreated to the administration building followed by thirteen lusty freshmen. Each group claimed victory as its own, and a hasty, formal faculty huddle prevented a mild civil war by announcing that duplicate prizes would be awarded. Never again, Coach Leonard stated, would he officiate at Freshman camp.

Saturday night, the group assembled in the outdoor arena, and Colonel Greene, Mr. Van Tine, Coach Leonard, and Head Coach Halas gave short addresses, and were followed by similar ones by student leaders present. Al Fitzgerald, captain of the 1936 edition of the Dragon Gridiron Aggregation, discoursed a bit on the difficulties of college, but pointed out that students should enter some extra-curricular activity. Roy Gibson, of the Y. M. C. A., Winfield Scott, Student Council president, John Powisshill, Blue Key leader, Jack Behenna, Camp Arranger, Fred Cramer, "Drexerd" Editor, Jack Baumann, TRIANGLE editor, and Nick Jacoby, "D" Book editor, also spoke.

A chapel service was held Sunday morning by Mr. Van Tine, and later the group contented itself with playing games until it was time to depart. Those freshmen who were members of the winning teams in the Olympiad are: Harry Nuold, John Persson, James Campbell, Jack Raum, Stanley Given, E. Szyplu, Sid Schaffer, Ted Shilling, Ray Seleen, Walter Simmons, W. L. Sassman, Bob Topham, and Edwin Carlan.

Delta Sigma Epsilon

Delta Sigma Epsilon opened the new school year with a high attendance at its meeting Monday evening in the Women's Lounge. Plans were made for the third annual Pigskin Shuffle which is being presented on Saturday evening, October 17, in the Great Court. The committee for the dance consists of: Betty Mitchell, chairman; Marian Jackson, tickets; Sally Barr, decorations; and Marie McAllister, publicity.

Marguerite Aimetti was named chairman of the fall houseparty which is to be given at the Lodge in November. This year the Delta Sigs have scheduled both a fall and spring houseparty.

In the absence of Elizabeth Schrack, Barbara Ferry was elected Recording Secretary. The other officers for the present year are: Eleanor Wray, President; Virginia Mertz, Vice-President; Doris Goforth, Treasurer; Betty Williams, Corresponding Secretary; Betty Mitchell, Chaplain; Marietta Schmitt, Sergeant; and Marguerite Aimetti, Historian.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

Tri Sigma held their convention at the Wardman Park Hotel, Washington, D. C., August 18 to 22. Over 200 members attended. Alpha Delta chapter of Drexel was the hostess to thirty-two chapters throughout United States. Lois Young, delegate, Trudy MacRae, Betty Jones, Jean Nick, and the Alumnae represented Drexel at the convention.

Two of the important acts of the convention were the amending of the Constitution and the combining of two of the sorority magazines. A professor from the University of Pennsylvania spoke at one of the meetings. His plan for attempting to prevent tuberculosis among college women was adopted.

Tri Sigma will open its social season with the Eighth Annual Spanish Cabaret, November 7th, in the great court. The committee is comprised of Dotty Hogeland, chairman; Helen Sellers, and Jean Nick. Tickets will be on sale starting today from any member.
