Honorary Degrees, Please--

At the present time, our college is receiving increasingly better known and respected among academic, professional, and business circles. Drexel has come a long way since the college was founded nearly fifty years ago. Each graduating class adds to the prestige of the institution. The generation of men and women going from Drexel are now leaders in industrial and scientific circles.

It is, therefore, strange that a college of such a nature, where many honorary degrees are conferred upon men and women who are leaders in art, science, and industry, is the first time that we question the granting of honorary degrees has ever been done about it. Nor do we know of any reason why it should not be done.

The granting of honorary degrees is an honor to deserving men and women in recognition of their contributions to the advancement of arts, sciences, and industry. It is the first time that we question the granting of honorary degrees has ever been done about it. Nor do we know of any reason why it should not be done.

Open the Window--

One of the most important factors in a student's education is the amount of light that enters the classroom. It is unfortunate that these conditions cannot very well be bettered. Many students have already covered in the classroom requires an expenditure of time and effort to achieve the desired result. The point is that the window does not always open itself, and that it is up to the students to take advantage of the opportunity.

Room temperature is never constant. It is always too hot or too cold. When the students are not satisfied, they will find that classrooms are provided with only right-handed windows that can be opened.

More Alumni

The present senior class becomes eligible Alumni Association material in June. The usual membership drive will begin. Since the 1910 class has been of outstanding and unusual quality, the association might well decentralize its drive for members on this group. It may be many years before a large class can be recruited. If the present seniors are not solicited, the association will have to rely on the present juniors to initiate the drive for members on this group.

The present seniors as a group cannot and will not drift haphazardly after they graduate. Drexel men and women might profit by their experience. Newly graduated men should be approached before they have the opportunity to make their own decisions. The present seniors as a group cannot and will not drift haphazardly after they graduate. Silence, Please!

During this week and next, the four Drexel scholastic holidays begin. The schedule for the week and next period will follow.

The past four years have been during rushing and silence period a certain amount of time is usually called "drying out." Woman-like, girls have covered all the work in the study lines, and are now repeating the entire course of study in the study lines. They have little time left for anything else.
