JOIN THE NORTHEASTERN STAFF IN AN AUTOMATIC BID INTO THE NCAA AS ASSISTANT ATHLETIC DIRECTOR, CALENDAR EDUCATION DEPARTMENT.

NEWS SOCCER COACH NAMED AT NEU

Serving Drexel University Since 1926...

THE TRIANGLE

Volume 66 • Number 36

Consultant hired as acting dean of enrollment management

Gary Rosenzweig

Of The Triangle

There has been a change in the Admissions department as Dr. Ron Ingersoll takes over as acting chairman of Enrollment Management. He was formally a consultant from outside the university until Dr. Thomas Wickewicz decided to leave the department in June. Ingersoll's appointment comes on the heels of a 29 percent drop in the number of freshmen planning to attend class in the fall.

"This represents an opportunity for me to get involved in a whole school again," said Ingersoll. He has done consulting work for over 200 colleges, including New York University, the Rochester Institute of Technology, the University of Southern Illinois, and the Illinois Institute of Technology.

Ingersoll will remain in the position for about a year, while a national search is conducted for a permanent dean. The temporary appointment will allow the administration to "go through the [search] process in the right way," said Ingersoll. He said that the timing was bad to conduct a proper search in June.

Part of Ingersoll's plans for the department include creating a "taskforce" to discuss and advise on the subject of recruitment and retention. The taskforce consists of administrators, faculty, and students who are concerned with or involved in the enrollment problem. The taskforce, which would form around October, would attempt to "make enrollment management an institutional issue" according to Ingersoll.

Ingersoll believes that the problems experienced this year in enrollment were due to a lack of communication with low-performing students as well as external factors. "At a critical period we were not able to communicate with the market," said Ingersoll. "We just dropped the ball on communicating with the students," he said. "We have to be more aggressive on follow-ups."

He also said that Drexel is a hard school to market because of the co-op program. "People cannot compare it to a Penn or a Harvard," he said.

Ingersoll believes that direct mail and publications as the best way to reach prospective students. He said that newspaper and radio advertisements should be used for specific purposes, such as reaching specific minorities or high school teachers and counselors. He also wants to upgrade individual campus visits.

New soccer coach named

Triangle Sports Desk

Keith Cammidge has been named head soccer coach, replacing Johnnie Bowie who recently resigned as coach to become director of soccer. Director Cammidge, who becomes only the third head coach in the 45-year history of the Drexel women's program, will also serve as an instructor in the school's physical education department.

Bowie, who also once served as Assistant Athletic Director, compiled a 127-89-15 record during his 14-year tenure as head coach and turns over a soccer program in Cammidge that last year won the Philadelphia Soccer Seven championship and the East Coast Conference co-championship. Next season will be the first for the Dragons in the newly expanded North Atlantic Conference, which has an automatic bid into the NCAA Division I Soccer Tournament.

Cammidge arrives after spending the last seven seasons at Northeastern University. He joined the Northeastern staff in 1984 as an assistant coach in 1984 and within three years was promoted to head coach. Last season was the highlight of his career as he was named the 1990 North Atlantic Conference Soccer Coach of the Year. This year he led the Huskies to their first winning season since 1984, finishing second in the Atlantic 10 Conference and a tenth-place ranking in the final New England Top 10 poll.

"We are very pleased to have the Coach-of-the-Year in the North Atlantic Conference directing our next season," Bowie stated. "He is feeling forward to Keith's expertise in soccer and his ability to devote full attention to the soccer program."

"I am really excited with this new challenge," Cammidge said. "I feel I've worked long and hard to get into this position of inheriting a program with a strong commitment to soccer and a great tradition, and I feel I am going to help take the program to the next level."

Cammidge holds both a F.A. coaching license and a U.S.S.F. coaching license.

Faculty Senate begins to review programs

Sean Zheng

Of The Triangle

Drexel Faculty Senate met on July 2 and passed the recommendation of the Senate Committee on Academic Affairs to terminate the Engineering Science and the Science, Technology, and Humanities Programs. The Appropriate Technology Program was recommended by the same motion to continue as a major. The administration has considered changing the Appropriate Technology Program to a minor. During the meeting, Dr. Brown, the Provost, explained the current plans and directions of the administration to the Senate, which has been deeply concerned about the current budget crisis. Brown mentioned the University mission statement. He said that Drexel has largely expanded in research and graduate programs in recent history, but whether this positive growth has affected the undergraduate programs was not yet determined. He emphasized the continuation of present graduate programs, and hinted that undergraduate students might warrant more attention.

He also claimed that the administration was not looking to cut any academic curriculum, but rather the excessive number of sections of some courses. He also pointed out that each college should help reduce the unnecessary course sections.

At the end of his report, Dr. Brown informed the Senate that more downsizing would be expected in the 1992-1993 budget. The cuts will come mostly from personnel reductions.

See SENATE on page 2

Index

Julv 12, 1991

Campus ............4
Ed-Op ..............6
Comics ............8
Classifieds .........12
Entertainment .......16
Breslin releases budget timeline

Triangle News Desk

On June 25, President Breslin released a “process document” to the University community defining a timeline for formulating a budget plan for fiscal year 92-93. The resiling plan will be presented to the Board of Trustees on Sept. 25 and is expected to include across the board budget reductions.

The nine “issues to be resolved” that were outlined in the document included the mission statement, possible academic reorganization, alternative budget approaches, and revenue enhancements.

The timeline included columns for academic, administration, finance, senate, the president and Trustee notification. Weekly coordination meetings are scheduled throughout July and August and the Priorities Review Committee is involved in many of the phases of the process.

According to the schedule, a final budget is due from the administration on Aug. 23. The President should approve any reorganization, program changes, a mission and/or vision statement and the final budget by Aug. 26.

International students arrive

Triangle News Desk

As every summer, students are coming to Drexel's Campus from various European countries to study Technical English. While they are here they will also take several trips to Washington, D.C., New York, and other locations to get a broader view of American life.

Drexel cable show premieres

Continued from page 1

The students, who will come for two sessions in July and August, are from France, Italy, Spain, and Germany.

The program that is sponsoring them is called BEC (British European Center). Exchange Program which sends students to colleges across the U.S. The University is not directly responsible for any of these courses since the BEC arranges informal tutoring sessions to prepare them for daily conversation.

The International Area Studies department has scheduled several social events for Drexel students to meet them. If anyone is interested in participating in any of these activities, they can contact the IAS office for times and places.

The Triangle

Established in 1926

Editor-in-Chief .....................................................Gary Rosenzweig
Managing Editor ..................................................Brian D. Yates
Ed-Op Page Editor ...............................................Ted Howe
Entertainment Editor .........................................Deeley G. Smith
Campus Page Editor .............................................Ilan Brovman
Comics Page Editor ............................................Michael Tirenin
Copy Editor ......................................................Dan Morrow
Copy Editor ......................................................Jennifer Gibbons
Photography Editor .............................................John Vassallo
Classifieds Manager .............................................Mark Boyle
Office Manager ..................................................Sean Zheng
Circulation Manager ..........................................John Manfield

Matthew Appelton, Sandra Banks, Jack Bilson III, Steve Bojanowski, Scott Brown, Katherine Campbell, Dave Collins, Rich Coughlan, Greg Galick, Suzanne Hay, John Manfield, Arjay Mahlon, Anna Michel, Andrew Ross, Carol Smith

Opinions expressed within are not necessarily those of The Triangle or Drexel University.

The Triangle is published Fridays in Philadelphia, PA, during the academic year, except during examinations and vacation periods.

Subscriptions may be ordered for $20 for six months, display and classified advertising may be placed at the address below.

The Triangle • Drexel University
32nd & Chestnut Sts. • Philadelphia, PA 19104
Business: (215) 895-2566 • News: (215) 895-2585

Weather

Friday & Saturday—Chance of showers and thunderstorms

Lows in the mid 60s and highs in the mid 80s

6-to-10 day outlook—Temperatures above normal (86 degrees) with precipitation below normal (0.6 inches)
Computer conference provides look at future of higher education;
Everything from animated lectures to new pranks

Dallas, Texas (CPS) — For students, it means being plugged into huge networks that let them engage in "collaborative writing." There will be nifty new ways to study science. And certainly not least, there is a brave new world of pranks.

Everything from animated lectures to new pranks is a brave new world of pranks. The academicians gathered at the seventh annual Academic Computing Conference June 11-15 in Dallas seemed to agree, will remake the future of college computing.

"We'll create more interest and excitement in students and increase interaction between faculty and students," said Larry McKinney, acting vice president for IBM's Academic Information Systems business unit, formed in 1983 to help campuses enhance the quality of education through the use of technology.

At the conference, professors from around the country conducted sessions about their advances in academic computing for teaching, research and libraries.

Students around the country, they reported, are using computers and other high-tech devices to study human anatomy and students, quality, and even history and writing.

New graphics and visuals are making computers even more flexible teaching tools, asserted Charles Landis, an educational media consultant with Interactive Generation in Seattle.

"A well designed, multimedia curriculum increases retention and learning," Landis said. "It will increase the quality of the education students receive.

"For the students that have grown up watching [MTV], they can look into learning through PCs," McKinney added. However, there can be a dark side to the technological revolution.

When Pennsylvania's Mansfield University installed cable TV hookups, voice mail and connections to the university's mainframe computer system in each room in 1987, administrators noticed that many students were spending more time in their rooms, becoming "room rats." Nevertheless, campuses are pushing ahead with new technology.

University of Maryland history Prof. Chad McDaniel, for instance, told of the use of color maps of the illiteracy rate in different regions of the United States in the 1950s, saying they help students learn about social trends. The screen can be split to show absolute and proportionate trends. The screen can be split to show absolute and proportionate trends.

"It allows you to show students that history isn't a body of facts. It allows people to explore issues that books don't," McDaniel said. "Students find it a much more interesting way to learn history." Good, bad, or indifferent, computers have been reshaping the academic uses of computers.

With the machines' spread, of course, has come high-tech pranks.

At the University of Wisconsin—Stevens Point, reported how he uses high speed computer networks to teach even a liberal arts course like writing skills.

Each student in Wresch's class has a desktop PC, which is linked to everyone else's. Students can send or receive messages, make suggestions, or correct written work. His students, he said, get more out of writing assignments when they are encouraged to collaborate with their peers, and the instructor becomes more of a facilitator and less of an attention figure.

Released from the normal social constraints of today's classrooms, students produce a broader style of writing, while the instructor becomes more approachable.

All of the advances in technology, McKinney said, may force students to change the way they shop for the machines.

"Most of the experience students have with computers is from personal computers," he said. "Now, when they make a computer purchase, they should think about how they can plug into the school's system.

"A well designed, multimedia curriculum increases retention and learning," Landis said. "It will increase the quality of the education students receive.

"For the students that have grown up watching [MTV], they can look into learning through PCs," McKinney added. However, there can be a dark side to the technological revolution.

When Pennsylvania's Mansfield University installed cable TV hookups, voice mail and connections to the university's mainframe computer system in each room in 1987, administrators noticed that many students were spending more time in their rooms, becoming "room rats.

Nevertheless, campuses are pushing ahead with new technology.

University of Maryland history Prof. Chad McDaniel, for instance, told of the use of color maps of the illiteracy rate in different regions of the United States in the 1950s, saying they help students learn about social trends. The screen can be split to show absolute and proportionate trends. The screen can be split to show absolute and proportionate trends.

"It allows you to show students that history isn't a body of facts. It allows people to explore issues that books don't," McDaniel said. "Students find it a much more interesting way to learn history." Good, bad, or indifferent, computers have been reshaping the academic uses of computers.

With the machines' spread, of course, has come high-tech pranks.

At the University of Wisconsin—Stevens Point, reported how he uses high speed computer networks to teach even a liberal arts course like writing skills.

Each student in Wresch's class has a desktop PC, which is linked to everyone else's. Students can send or receive messages, make suggestions, or correct written work. His students, he said, get more out of writing assignments when they are encouraged to collaborate with their peers, and the instructor becomes more of a facilitator and less of an attention figure.

Released from the normal social constraints of today's classrooms, students produce a broader style of writing, while the instructor becomes more approachable.

All of the advances in technology, McKinney said, may force students to change the way they shop for the machines.

"Most of the experience students have with computers is from personal computers," he said. "Now, when they make a computer purchase, they should think about how they can plug into the school's system.

Charles Landis, an educational media consultant with Interactive Generation in Seattle, explained that while even history and writing.

"A well designed, multimedia curriculum increases retention and learning," Landis said. "It will increase the quality of the education students receive.

"For the students that have grown up watching [MTV], they can look into learning through PCs," McKinney added. However, there can be a dark side to the technological revolution.

When Pennsylvania's Mansfield University installed cable TV hookups, voice mail and connections to the university's mainframe computer system in each room in 1987, administrators noticed that many students were spending more time in their rooms, becoming "room rats." Nevertheless, campuses are pushing ahead with new technology.

University of Maryland history Prof. Chad McDaniel, for instance, told of the use of color maps of the illiteracy rate in different regions of the United States in the 1950s, saying they help students learn about social trends. The screen can be split to show absolute and proportionate trends. The screen can be split to show absolute and proportionate trends.

"It allows you to show students that history isn't a body of facts. It allows people to explore issues that books don't," McDaniel said. "Students find it a much more interesting way to learn history." Good, bad, or indifferent, computers have been reshaping the academic uses of computers.

With the machines' spread, of course, has come high-tech pranks.

At the University of Wisconsin—Stevens Point, reported how he uses high speed computer networks to teach even a liberal arts course like writing skills.

Each student in Wresch's class has a desktop PC, which is linked to everyone else's. Students can send or receive messages, make suggestions, or correct written work. His students, he said, get more out of writing assignments when they are encouraged to collaborate with their peers, and the instructor becomes more of a facilitator and less of an attention figure.

Released from the normal social constraints of today's classrooms, students produce a broader style of writing, while the instructor becomes more approachable.

All of the advances in technology, McKinney said, may force students to change the way they shop for the machines.

"Most of the experience students have with computers is from personal computers," he said. "Now, when they make a computer purchase, they should think about how they can plug into the school's system.

William Wresch, a professor at the University of Wisconsin—Stevens Point, reported how he uses high speed computer networks to teach even a liberal arts course like writing skills.

Each student in Wresch's class has a desktop PC, which is linked to everyone else's. Students can send or receive messages, make suggestions, or correct written work. His students, he said, get more out of writing assignments when they are encouraged to collaborate with their peers, and the instructor becomes more of a facilitator and less of an attention figure.
Greek members score fifty-one perfect report cards

Ajoy C. Mahtab
Phi Kappa Sigma

The Theta Chi annual "Gus Open" Golf Tournament, held on Jeffrey I. on May 11, was a resounding success. The fraternity presented a check in the amount of $1,000 to the Leukemia Society of America.

Campus: IFA Townwatch continues to be given national attention. Last year, May 25th, 1990, President George Bush recognized the Drexel IFA Townwatch as the 150th Point of Light in his Daily Points of Light Campaign. An invitation has been extended by the White House for Townwatch representatives to take a trip to Disney World along with representatives of some of the other recognized Points of Light. The University Police Department of the University of Kansas Medical Center is also interested in setting up a similar program and has requested information and/or assistance from our program.

The standings for the IFA Cup for sports at the end of Spring term has Sigma Pi leading with 60 points, Lambda Chi Alpha in second place with 52 points, and Theta Chi a close third with 50 points. The IFA decided that all major sports will be awarded 6 points for a win and minor sports will get 4 points for a win.

In the area of Academics, Greeks continue to maintain a high standard of achievement. During the Spring term the overall Greek GPA stood at 2.97 for the term. This is in comparison to an All Men's Average of 2.795 and an All Women's Average of 2.592. Greeks continue to be leaders in and out of the classroom. The following had 4.0's last term:

Alpha Pi Lambda: Jim Beam Mike Bornmann Kurt Snowekewin Alpha Chi Rho: Robert Frensey Delta Sigma Phi: Eric Kretschman Lambda Chi Alpha: Ronald Jordan Matthew Carillo Al Ferroiali

Shown are Bonnie Smith (AZ) and Tony Wirrel (FKX), who along with Hank Margolis (IKE) attended a reception on the South Lawn of the White House on behalf of our IFA Townwatch. In his opening remarks, White House Aid, Andy Card, spoke briefly about the IFA Town Watch Program.

Richard Harvey Robert Harvey John Puterczyk David Shafgen Phi Kappa Kiphi

Jeff Kravetz Quentin Lutz Mike Matrak Pi Lambda Phi Eric Shuckmarter

Gus Kocolos Louis Novelli Donald O'Donnell Vaughn Sillar Sigma Alpha Mu Jeffrey Cannon Sigma Pi Mike Mokois Tau Epsilon Phi See for yourself Andrew Delikat William Doyle Kenneth Gawason Tau Kappa Epsilon Brian Horin John Seale Alpha Sigma Alpha Kathy Sussmann Delta Zeta Catherine Maddalon Indi Mari Phi Mu Nicole Bonsaer Sarah Lincum Laura Naccarato Bonnie Richards Julie Smith Phi Sigma Sigma Suzann Caraballo Dina Dietz Marcella Jans Tam Marrella Jennifer Radler Candace Riker Kelly St. John Congratulations to all of them.

Blanketly Blank
Department of Blank

This week, the Department of Blank will be coming out with their new blank policy. This policy is designed to speed the process for students who are trying to get their blanks to blanketly-blank. Department cost estimator, Mrs. Blank, figures that not only will this policy make life easier for students, but it will also save Drexel SX each term.

The Blank Department is welcoming Drexel employees to attend a free reception in honor of blank. There will be lots of blanking going on; but proper attire will be required for all participants.

Construction is finishing up on Dr. Blank's new blank. Mr. Blank, who has been working on the blanking project since it started, says that he is pleased with the results, and that he now hopes to be able to blank with the rest of the blank.

The Blank Committee welcomes the new head blank, Mr. Blankety-blank. Mr. Blank came to Drexel after an extensive national search conducted by Dr. Blank. We would all like to wish Mr. Blank the best of luck.

The Triangle is making a request for someone to come and fill in the blanks. In order to serve the entire community, we need contributions from administrative and faculty writers. One of our goals is to get regular ceramics from both groups who could give brief reports on what is happening in the departments. Prospective writers should contact the Campus Editor. These and other submissions to The Campus Page should be turned in by 5:00 PM on the Tuesday before we go to press. Thank you.

From: Ronnie Manlin

* Drexel University extends a gracious invitation to the entire Drexel community to attend all opening receptions at the Creese Student Art Gallery. Consult the calendar for all scheduled events. Please check for proper attire.
SENIORS

GET A HEADSTART ON YOUR JOB SEARCH

The Center for Co-operative Education and the Career Services will conduct

SENIOR ORIENTATION SEMINARS

(FOR STUDENTS GRADUATING BETWEEN DECEMBER, 1991 AND AUGUST, 1992)

Topics to be addressed include:

• IMPORTANT DATES AND DEADLINES
• INTRODUCTION TO ON-CAMPUS RECRUITING
• HOW TO MAKE THE MOST OF THE SUMMER
• RESOURCES AT CAREER SERVICES

JULY 23, 24, 25, 26
Room 418, Main Building

9:00 a.m. - 10:00 a.m.
10:30 a.m. - 11:30 a.m.
12:00 p.m. - 1:00 p.m.
1:30 p.m. - 2:30 p.m.

Register to attend sessions by calling 590-8633 or stop by Career Services Center, 3210 Cherry Street.
Plethora of problems

We are in midst of the lazy days of summer. Everything at Drexel has either been done or is in the planning stages. In order to break the boredom, the Triangle staff has come up with a list of items that we think could use some improvement.

• There is a sink in MacAlister Hall in the third floor men's bathroom that drips. We did a little experiment and discovered that it wastes 1,080 gallons of water a week.

• These things happen all the time, but we can't ignore them. In the main building last term a man came in to fix a hole in the wall. As he was filling in the plaster a second man supervised — in effect doing exactly nothing. The process took the entire class time.

• Maybe things were slow that day, or maybe the first man was not deemed competent to fill the hole unsupervised. These things happen — but they shouldn't.

• Myer hall is currently undergoing some renovations. The doors to the vacant rooms have been left unlocked, thus inviting vandalism. The repair bills for the dorms every year show that there is quite a bit of vandalism in our dorms, like it or not. So why invite the few trouble-makers into unoccupied rooms, where they can get away with more.

• The "Dragon Wagon" or Drexel shuttle, has not been keeping to its schedule recently. It used to be that you could almost set your watch to them.

• There is a program every summer called ACTO11 which is for 'underprivileged' kids from the area. While this is a fine program, and mutually beneficial to Drexel and the community, there is a problem. Frequently large groups of these students create a lot of noise in the buildings and disrupt our classes.

There is a need for more control of this program so that it does not interfere with Drexel's normal operation.

• Have you noticed those signs on every building? They are not a pretty sight, especially the way that they are fixed to the windows of the building. It turns out that the cost of the signs was no big deal, and they were designed to be used only for orientation. However the Physical Plant really did a number on them when they hung them up. Particularly the signs on Matheson and Straton, where some sort of tape was stuck between the glass and the front of the sign, creating a particularly ugly sight.

• This problem has been around for some time. Why do freshmen, who are straight out of their high-tech high-school science labs, have to take biology lab in a kitchen? This is precisely what causes Drexel's poor retention. This is also why we complain about money being spent on planting trees, while educational needs are not met.

President responds to student difficulties in paying tuition

Ed. Note: The following two letters from President Breslin are in response to letters that appeared in the May 4 issue of The Triangle. Both letters from our readers were concerned with the high cost of an education at Drexel.

Problems of the nature you expressed in your recent letter unavoidably occur and often result in the stressful anxiety that you have listed. Our students are Drexel University, and we make a concerted effort to see that each and every avenue is explored in an effort to ease their financial obligation to the University. I sincerely hope that there will never be another Drexel student who has to make the choice between an inferior education at a lesser university because (s)he is unable to afford the cost of an outstanding education at our University. Therefore, your letter is an indication of the eagerness exhibited by Mr. Nick Flocco, our Director of Financial Aid, that your financial needs have been met satisfactorily.

Richard D. Breslin, Ph.D.
President

You are absolutely correct! Our students are Drexel University's reason for being. That's why we are so concerned about the welfare of each of you. I sincerely regret your characterization of a self-described victim of the "Drexel Shaft." Problems of the nature you expressed unavoidably occur and often result in the stressful anxiety that you expressed in your letter.

After consultation with Mr. Nick Flocco, our Director of Financial Aid, I was especially pleased to learn that your difficulties have been resolved. It is our fervent hope that there will never be another Drexel student who confronts these same emotional and financial hardships.

I would welcome the opportunity to sit down with you at a particular time and discuss your situation — and, needless to say, to convince you that you have described. Our students are Drexel University's raison d'être. It is our main devotion to the school you once called "home." Please give my office a call to arrange a time for us to meet.

Richard D. Breslin, Ph.D.
President

The search for moral obligation

What has happened to people's sense of moral obligation? Have we become so introverted that we will not concern ourselves with others?

I ask these questions in response to an event which might be considered trivial in the scope of things, but is an event quite important to me: Quire recently, I left my bicycle seat in the phone booth in the Main Building's ground floor cafe teria. An hour later, I realized I didn't have my seat and returned to recapture it. My seat was gone, so I went to the janitor's office to see if one of them had seen it. 'Oh, yeah," one of them said, 'We were sitting there for about twenty minute or so. We were thinking that someone might want it and was gonna be needing it.' My mouth gaping, I responded, "Then you did actually see my seat, but didn't pick it up?" And two of them said, 'Yeah, we saw it in there..." Their responses riled me. They saw this thing sitting there and realized that someone would need it. Why didn't the people who rec tected it return it to its rightful owner?

Isn't it everybody's wish that something be or she loses will be picked up by some kind soul who will attempt to get it returned to its owner? Clearly, the answer is yes. So, if everybody feels this way, why hasn't happened to moral obligation, to a sort of "do- unto-others" philosophy? I know that I haven't left the seat unattended, but why didn't the people who rec tected this fact do something about it. Retrieving the seat and holding it in a safe place would not have required much time or excessive effort, just a sense of duty.

My loss may not seem like a huge ordeal, but considering that earlier in the year, I had the same kind of seat stolen from my bike outside of Matheson Hall while I was inside the building, it matters quite a bit to me. I am not made of money and simply can't afford $50 to buy a seat and post combination every month because someone decides they need one just a little bit more than I do and will get one at my expense. Those who steal or take what isn't theirs do so because they are often victimizing a faceless person. They will probably never know their victim and if they do

Do the Right Thing

Suzanne Hinton

self-centered that we have forgotten how to concern ourselves with others?

The Right Thing

Suzanne Hinton

and realized that someone would often victimizing a faceless person. They will probably never know their victim and if they do

The Right Thing

Suzanne Hinton

and realized that someone would...
Revelations about the way the majority thinks of the minority

As a non-resident of the city, I faced a number of challenges during my time in Philadelphia. The city is quite large and diverse, with many neighborhoods and communities. As a white male from an Anglo-German background, I was often seen as a minority by those who shared my race and ethnicity.

One of the concerns about Judge Thomas' background to a position at the top of his profession is the issue of his race. Many people (both inside and outside the city) are concerned about the appointment of a black man to one of the most powerful positions in the country. The appointment of Judge Thomas to the Supreme Court is seen as a positive step towards diversity in the judiciary.

However, this being the mass media, there is often a rush to judge without all the facts. The torture, or those who sanctioned it. It has been brought to my attention that being involved in torture is a serious matter, and it requires a full and fair investigation.

The Triangle • July 12, 1991

Editorial

Vandalism of GLBD

office draws response from administration

Editor:

It has been brought to my attention that a number of posters and flyers have been ripped from the GLBD office. These acts of vandalism are being made to the organization.

Please be advised that vandalism of the GLBD office should report the event to the University Judicial Officer (998-2000). If a student is formally charged with harassing GLBD, they or she will be referred to the judicial process of the University and, if guilty, will receive appropriate sanctions.

Harassment of any group or individual at Drexel will not be tolerated.

James Hallam
Assistant Vice President for Student Life

Revelations about the way the majority thinks of the minority

This past week, President George Bush put in motion a process that could have profound effects on the future of civil liberties in our country. By nominating Judge Clarence Thomas to succeed Justice Thurgood Marshall on the Supreme Court, Bush took yet another step in the balance of the high court for a long time to come.

If Thomas is confirmed by the Senate, there would be a majority of justices who could be considered "conservative". I'm not sure that I like the labels of political leaning any more than you do. But I do consider them important because they give an idea about tendencies. Regardless of the other effects of the nomination, the hype and publicity surrounding the confirmation process is the most important thing, far more interesting than the actual debate about the cases at issue. The Supreme Court is there to look around themselves and see what is going on in the country.

Who's really responsible?

Continued from previous page

sider themselves obligated to involve themselves, nevertheless responsible in any way for such injustices. Furthermore, any pangs of guilt in a person would be erased because there were so many other Germans. Surely, one might have thought, if someone should be doing something, someone will do it: "Why should the sense of duty rest solely on my shoulders?" However, this being the mass media, someone would have taken the initiative to stop the violence. (Yes, a few anti-genocide groups did emerge within the country, but did not find enough support to be effective before more Jews were slaughtered.) Why would they have been there without me? I was there with widely accepted activities, risking attention being brought to them? It was much easier for the Germans to let someone else determine if anything needed to be done and then tell me or her to do it.

Losing a bicycle seat is in no way tantamount to a holocaust, about you that is a minority. Stop for a minute and think about others who share that minority. Whether you like them in every way for even in just those ways is significant. See SEEING on page 10
Comics

Beaver Boy
by Rich Coughlan

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS
1 Telephone
5 Trig term
10 Ancient Arcadian City
14 New York City
16 On the ocean
17 A MARKED OWL
19 In order
20 Javier __ De Cueller
21 Denigrates
23 Cuts the wood
26 PDQ
27 Non-com
30 Reimburse
32 Touchy King
38 Chronicle
39 Axelrod for short
40 Twenty
42 River in Germany
43 Moral
45 Tally
46 Load
48 Bayou residents
50 Rip
52 Adam's Grandson
54 Entrance
55 Ms Korbut
56 Leave out
58 Active people
62 Polluter Roper
63 WE DOCK ROPE
66 Sponsorship
67 nothing
68 Las Vegas game
69 New England Eleven
70 Delta or Peewee
71 Concede

DOWN
1 Bivouac
2 Away from the wind
3 King or Norman
4 Loads
5 __ how: Acquiesce
6 Every
7 Legumes
8 Gambling term
9 Singer Paul and family
10 PIN DRAPES
11 Understanding words
12 Close by
13 Dines
14 Missouri mountain
15 Appalachian
16 Smallest
17 Build without a buyer
18 Small garments
19 Send it over the phone: two words
20 Belief
21 Do penance
22 Acte
23 Sharp mountain ridge
24 Bad throat
25 Lobes a star
26 Send substitutes
27 Profound
28 True
29 Do penance
30 Belief
31 Understand
32 Ecstasy
33 Bauble
34 Sharp mountain ridge
35 Bad throat
36 Send substitutes
37 Scrambled "Eggs"
38 Send substitutes
39 Axelrod for short
40 Twenty
41 Crass
42 River in Germany
43 Moral
44 Dwellers
45 Wear away
46 Pay dinner
47 Ermine
48 Fragrant wood
49 Bank Abbrev.
50 Rip
51 Barely gains with effort
52 Adam's Grandson
53 Bennet
54 Profound
55 Ms Korbut
56 Leave out
57 Anode or cathode
58 Active people
59 Barely gains with effort
60 Monthly budget item
61 Broadway signs
62 Polluter Roper
63 WE DOCK ROPE
64 Computer term
65 Prefix meaning before
66 Sponsorship
68 Las Vegas game
69 New England Eleven
70 Delta or Peewee
71 Concede

Scrambled "Eggs"

Good connection this year... I get a Star Trek check set & Gates McDonald's poster...

1  Bivouac
2  Away from the wind
3  King or Norman
4  Loads
5  how: Acquiesce
6  Every
7  Legumes
8  Gambling term
9  Singer Paul and family
10  PIN DRAPES
11  Understanding words
12  Close by
13  Dines
14  Missouri mountain
22  Appalachian
23  Build without a buyer
24  Small garments
25  Send it over the phone: two words
26  Belief
27  Do penance
28  Acte
29  Sharp mountain ridge
30  Bad throat
31  Lobes a star
32  Send substitutes
33  Profound
34  True
35  Do penance
36  Belief
37  Understand
32  Ecstasy
33  Bauble
34  Sharp mountain ridge
35  Bad throat
36  Send substitutes
37  Scrambled "Eggs"
38  Send substitutes
39  Axelrod for short
40  Twenty
41  Crass
42  River in Germany
43  Moral
44  Wear away
45  Ermine
46  Fragrant wood
47  Bank Abbrev.
50  Rip
51  Barely gains with effort
52  Adam's Grandson
53  Bennet
54  Profound
55  Ms Korbut
56  Leave out
57  Anode or cathode
58  True
59  Barely gains with effort
60  Monthly budget item
61  Broadway signs
62  Polluter Roper
63  WE DOCK ROPE
64  Computer term
65  Prefix meaning before
66  Sponsorship
68  Las Vegas game
69  New England Eleven
70  Delta or Peewee
71  Concede

The Post-Reagan Anti-Yuppie Recessionary Dropped for Non-Payment Metaphorical Philadelphia Blues

by I. Paul B.

How to do your dishes:

1. Scrape any remaining food
2. Soap
3. Add warm water
4. Pick up dish and wipe
5. Scrub dishes away when dry

NEXT WEEK:

How to Shove that Car Alarm Up Your Butt
Cryptogram

"CIXE C DXCEV SR QSO C DSOLX BQTKR"
Hints:
Opposite of him XIA
Bread spread FHB
Previous Answer:
Journalism is the rough draft of history.

Solution to the previous puzzle

The Wailing Wall
by Adam Rickert

Bottom Eight Centennial Events Not Planned
8. 100 trash fires in the chemistry labs
7. 100 unbathed lumberjacks in a sauna
6. 100 peppy polkas
5. 100 kegs of beer in the dorms
4. 100 art majors with propane torches
3. 100 episodes of the Webster t.v. series
2. 100 boisterous bow ties
1. 100 Chia Pets in the quad

John the Engineer
by Jack Bilson, III

"Did you see the new guys Drexel got for security?"

No, they go to class now. They are new, but you can always hear them by the whine of the engine. Or the boom of their radios. It's a moving power exhibit.
Driving for money and money can cause health problems for athletes

In the 1990 American League Championships, Boston fans beheld Oakland outfielder Jose Canseco by chanting, "Steroids, steroids!" Jose obliged and won over the fans by flexing at one point during the game. Steroids are not such a laughing matter however. In case you haven't seen the new issue of Sports Illustrated, ABC's 20/20, or ESPN's SportsCenter, former All-Pro defensive lineman Lyle Alzado has inoperable brain cancer which he attributes to his 22 years of steroid and high growth hormone abuse.

Alzado is coming out with this because for years he advocated the player's right to use steroids. He has now become the proof that he used to say never existed. Completely bald from chemotherapy, he has lost 70 pounds from his playing weight, and looks like a shadow of the man who was once among the most feared of all defensive linemen during the 70's and early 80's. He limps when he talks and often takes time to reply when asked a question because he has problems with the feet, instead of the unyielding turf, had to absorb the impact of his weight. He regrets one's own body and chemotherapy and watching himself lose his ability to walk. He has come to realize the fact that they were not born with the ability. Is reeking one's own body and chemotherapy and watching himself lose his ability to walk. This seems unlikely, but if God forbids, he does pass away, maybe his death can do what he couldn't do in life.

Another major problem in sports today is Astro-turf - the naturally angular surface of many stadium floors is necessary to operate their stadiums. This man-made substance is probably more responsible than anything else for the substantial rise in injuries that have plagued football and baseball over the last 20 years. Originally designed for the indoor playing surface of the Astroturf, "turf" has found its way to nearly one-half of all major league parks, football stadiums, and other playing fields (which luckily hasn't happened at Drexel). The owners of the facilities that use "turf" say that the costs of upkeep are lower than that of natural grass. Baseball owners say that play can continue for longer periods since the surface will not become unplayable as quickly. This supposedly saves the owners a few thousand dollars from having to excavate or resod fields. For all this worry about profit, the owners may not realize they may be losing money by keeping the turf. The reason? Player injuries.

Because "turf" is an unyielding surface made of concrete and plastic, many football players including some of the game's superstars that attract the fans which in turn bring in the money are injured just in the act of tackling. Many running backs, the most notable case being ex-Dolphins Larry Csonka, had their careers shortened because their feet, instead of the unyielding turf, had to absorb the impact. The feet feel when making sudden stops during a carry.

The turf has also shortened the careers of many major league baseball players. Because of the way Astro-turf is designed, it acts as a natural thermal collector which causes players to suffer temperatures of around 140°F. For the same reason many NFL running backs retire due to bad knees caused by the "turf" and the owners would enjoy the owners may not realize they may be losing money by keeping the turf. The reason? Player injuries.

Maybe what the sports world needs is a few more years, and the owners would enjoy the money the fans bring in. The owners, however, continue this hideous crime in the name of profit.

Many examples include Mike Schmidt who is injured just in the act of hitting the ball. In August of 1987, Schmidt was hit by a pitch which fractured his right foot. He had surgery to repair the break. The owner is now talking about his own foot injuries. Schmidt is due to return this season.

Examples include Mike Schmidt who is injured just in the act of hitting the ball. In August of 1987, Schmidt was hit by a pitch which fractured his right foot. He had surgery to repair the break. The owner is now talking about his own foot injuries. Schmidt is due to return this season.
Campus news from around the nation

Education Dept. May Rethink Campus Crime Privacy Rules

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Dept. of Education, which oversees most federal college programs, may rethink its threat to cut off federal funding to colleges that report the names of students arrested by campus police officers, an unnamed department spokeswoman said.

Earlier in the spring, judges in Arkansas and Missouri ordered colleges to let papers have the names of crime victims and suspects.

Graduating at Top of Class No Guarantee of Success, Prof Says

In a study that may put many college students' minds at ease, a University of Illinois professor has concluded that being valedictorian of one's high school class doesn't guarantee success.

"This group looks pretty much like the rest," said education Prof. Terry Denny, who along with former graduate student Kathy Arnold, traced the lives of 81 public and private high school students who graduated a decade ago, ranked first or second in their class.

The researchers found doctors, scientists, a drug-addicted former cheerleader and a waitress with emotional problems among the 46 women and men they tracked.

"They're not immune to the stuff of life," Denny said.

The researchers started following the 81 students before graduation, and have been interviewing and surveying them by mail nearly every other year.

One-third are physicians, lawyers or engineers and computer scientists, having earned a doctorate, 19 are in business-related fields and 15 are in business.

"As far as getting good grades are concerned, they're really good," Denny said. "But there's a lot of room at the top for those who didn't valedictorians." — CPS

Instructor Charged in Sex Slavery Case

Mesquite, Texas — A college instructor has been charged with kidnapping a woman and holding her prisoner in a closet for nearly two weeks.

The 22-year-old woman claimed that Bill Robert Cathey, 49, abducted her at gunpoint May 19 and that she was blindedfolded, gagged and taken to his Sunnyvale home.

She told police she was kept in a closet handcuffed from the ceiling by her hands, with her feet chained to the floor, said Sgt. Gary Westphal. Although she reported she was not raped, police said Cathey fondled her, masturbated in front of her and videotaped her. She escaped June 1.

Cathey, an instructor at the University of North Texas and Garland's Amber University, was charged with aggravated kidnapping. He denied that he abducted the woman and said his alleged captive was free to leave at any time. — CPS

Virginia Beach Party May Not Happen

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Although about half the nation's teenagers drink alcohol regularly, almost two-thirds of them couldn't taste the difference between alcoholic coolers and similarly colored mineral waters, U.S. Surgeon General Antonia Novello said June 7.

In a survey of 956 students nationwide, about 25 percent revealed they did not know the legal minimum age for buying alcohol, and that 90 percent did not know that a can of beer has as much alcohol as a shot of whiskey.

"Teenagers need to be educated about alcohol," Novello concluded. — CPS

Claming Harassment, Stanford Prof Quits

Stanford, Calif. — A professor at Stanford University's Medical School has quit because she was "fed up" with the "constant" sexual come-ons and demeaning remarks of her faculty colleagues.

"I've been told by other women that I was taken advantage of," said Dr. Frances Conley, a med school faculty member for 25 years. She decided to make an issue of it. Separately, a May Perdue University survey found that, of 208 female faculty members surveyed, half said they had experienced "some form of sexual harassment" from their students. — CPS

Campus Cop Sues U. of Pittsburgh For 'Underreporting' Crime

Pittsburgh, Pa. — University of Pittsburgh officials suspended campus police officer Vernon Barkley for criticizing what Barkley charged was "underreporting" crime at the school. Barkley charged in a suit against Pitt filed June 4.

Barkley accused Pitt police chief William Brennan of promising to promote him if he stopped complaining, and then ultimately of suspending him when he failed to stop.

Two Dartmouth Grad Students Murdered In Off-Campus Apartment

HANOVER, N.H. Two Dartmouth College Students who left their Ethiopian homeland seeking political freedom were murdered with an ax June 17 in the apartment they shared in a student housing complex near the Ivy League campus.

The victims were identified as Selamawit Kassahun Tsehaye and Tihos Kahsai Berhe, both 24. Police arrested Hadeselasse Gimy L, at the scene.

The slayings were the first reported in the college town in 23 years. Both victims were graduate students in the physics department. — CPS

---

Student Program Association
Upcoming Summer Events

Thursday Night Flicks

Blade Runner
When Harry Meet Sally
Princess Bride

Stein Auditorium - Nesbitt Hall
Show Times: 4:30, 7:00, 9:30, & 12:00
$2.00 Admission

Special Events

Blast Of A Band Bash
in the Quad - July 23, 1991
from 12:45pm to 1:30pm

For more info call 899-2795 or stop by our office at 1035 MacAlister

---

Free Rent*

*Minimum one month of free rent on selected leases signed up until August 1st. Call or stop by our office for details.

We have a variety of efficiencies, one, two, three, and up to eight bedrooms properties available. Act fast, because our places are going fast, and so is the free rent deal.

---

Memory Upgrades
Backup & Print Services
Modems, Hard Disks
Free phone consultations
Mac Plus/SE memory
1-25MB $100
1-4 MB $200
Includes installation

---

Macintosh™ accessories

---

Ixnabul

---

CAMPUS APARTMENTS
4043 WALNUT STREET
382-1300

---

The Triangle • July 12, 1991 • 11
Apartments

318 ARCH STREET
Live ON CAMPUS in quiet, secure, gigantic apartments. All rooms include:
heat, water and central air conditioning. Two bedrooms available. Call 222-8283
3 bedroom, 2 bath, in level, dishwasher, yard, heat, $799/month for 4.
$859/month for 3. Available September 1st.
2 bedroom, 2 bath, in level, dishwasher, yard, heat, $699/month for 3.
Available September 1st.

3175 Lancaster Ave., 2, 3 beds are cond, newly renovated, ceramic tile kitchen and bath. New carpets, lots of windows, $525 including heat, water.
222-8006.

37th & Powelton. Large and small one bedroom apartments. From $353/month.
Heat included. Call 881-8793 for info.
Lease terms vary.

$335/month. Heat included. Call 387-7498 for info. Leases may be 1, 2 or 3.
Powelton Village: Eiffel from 35th, 1 bed
$430, 2 bed $575, 3 bed $900, 4 bed
$1100, 5 bed $1700. Call Don DeW
Woodside at 263-1002.

3312 HAMILTON STREET
- Furnished, cable, L watered at 34th &
Pearl. 5 minute walk from campus.
386-7913, 386-7308.

1 & 2 Bedroom Apartments. Pay more at the Courtyard or Mines when you can have a luxury apartment for less in the same location! Central air, washer/dryer, dishwasher, garbage disposer, hardwood floors, gas heat. High security. Parking available, too.
844-9723/month.

4 to 6 Bedroom Houses with large rooms, large closets - available September.

6 bedroom house - $600/month - 3 bathrooms, dishwasher, washer/dryer, energy-efficient gas heat - 6 blocks to campus.

3 bedroom apartment - $640/month - washer/dryer, gas heat.

All Newly Renovated, Clean, Bright, and Sunny.
- All Appliances. Washer/Dryers. Some have Decks/AC.
-Per Bedroom, per person, per month: $525 - $600

Guaranteed Maintenance
Renovated, Managed & Owned by
The Philadelphia Construction Co., 3523 Pearl Street, Philadelphia.
A family-owned business located in Powelton Village

Lerner Court Apartments
3409-15 Race St. Modern Apts. 1, 2, 3, & 4 bdrm.
25% discount on Summer Rentals.
Location to renew.
CA/carpet/heat/ excellent
great location
$565-$423, $780-$585, $950-$712
Call...886-9999 or 387-8686

The Hair Hut
41st and Chestnut 105 S. 41st Street
For appointment call 222-7963

Exclusive, not expensive We style it your way
"Special prices for new customers only"
Wash & Cut $10
Perm $35 (long hair extra)

FREE BUS AND UTILITIES INCLUDED
STUDY HARD. LIVE AT EASE.
Make Your Move

PARK TOWNE
PLACE APARTMENTS
568-2200

WINHOFF MANAGEMENT
2200 Benjamin Franklin Parkway - just steps from the Art Museum.
Open Monday to Friday 9-6 Saturday & Sunday 1-5.
Will provide bus transportation to and from Park Towne Place and The University. All utilities included.

ASK ABOUT OUR STUDENT RATES

See what you can afford today!
Top-notch New Apartments Available

WANTED !!!

For Sale

For Sale - CompuSearch needs student rep. S or parttime. - 187-0127. Call Clark Park Real Estate. $275/mo. cach. AC, washer needed to share one large BDRM w/own bathroom. S275/mo each. Please call 387-5837.

Help Wanted

Help Wanted

HISTORIC POWELTOWN VILLAGE

APARTMENTS AVAILABLE JUSt MINUTES FROM CAMPUS!!!

BEAUTIFUL APARTMENTS IN GRACIOUS, RESTORED VICTORIAN BUILDINGS

MODERN KITCHENETS; TILE BATHS; LAUNDRY FACILITIES; HEAT INCLUDED

EXCELLENT SECURITY

OWNED AND MANAGED BY COMMUNITY RESIDENTS

EFPICIENCIES

$305

$415

$525

$750

MERIDIAN ASSOCIATES

387-7808

Amplex, all software included and Brother Dq-Mx printer. $700 for both. Call 223-9066. Leave message if no answer. /7-

ImageWriter II printer - like new offer. Call 387-6295. /7-

1985 Mustang LX. runs & looks great. $750 or best offer. Call 387-0293. /7-

Elephant Skin Briefcase for sale: Highest offer secures. Call 222-8699. /7-

Microsoft Excel - For Sale - Unopened, no reasonable offer refused. Call Eric at 225-5792. /7-

Mountain Bikes!! Giant Frames, 1 month old and mint cond. w/Schwinn GRL. $330. Thrsk 1000 Excellent for someone 7 or under $175. Call & leave message, w/your name. (215) 568-7790. /7-

Five piece sectional couch, red table, mandle bed, drapes, exercise bike, and air conditioner. All in excellent condition. Price negotiable. Call Missy at 386-7770. /7-

Mast Sell! Queen Size Sofa Bed. Excellent Condition $175. Also selling a dining set, 5 chairs included $150. Please call 557-012 & leave message. /7-

Coarra - Telegrapher dual band radio detector. No reasonable offer refused. Call Ryan at 223-5730. /7-

Mac Imagegenerator III, mint condition, asking $250. Extras include ribbons, paper, labels, user's software. Call Gil at 748-1238. /7-

Lease / Rent

Rent

For Sale

For Sale - Pamunca Volleyball Net System For Sale. By Ultimate Systems - the Best to the world. Originally $50, selling for $155. Hardly used. Call 386-9884. /7-

Selling a 2-speed mountain bike for $150. If interested, call Dan at 222-4612. /7-

PARKING GARAGE - An answer to your parking problems! For a reasonable price, you can park at 3408 Race Street - no need to worry about your car getting vandalized or weather damaged. Call 387-4177 today! /4-

K2 Thruxta Cricita GTS. Great for off-roading, w/sunroof, white, Sup., $2600 or B/O. Call (215) 486-0781. Office - (301) 429-6853. /4-

SALE: TV, coffee table, end tables, kitchen table, lamps, speakers, etc. Call Rick at 436-3785. /7-

2 Blue Btz Couches - $75 for both. Great for College! 1 White woman's bureau $50. All in good condition. Call Kim at 222-5409. /7-

Flying to California & Must Sell Car, 1980 Aries K the care that made Lee Winner of the Year. Asking $250. Extras include ribbons, burrito. No reasonable offer refused. Call Eric at 186-5182. If you are interested, call Dan at 222-4612. /7-

1 Blue Toyota Celica GTS, Great for co-ops, 5sp, $2600. Excellent Condition $175. Also selling a dining set, 5 chairs included $150. Please call 557-0112 & leave message. /7-

1985 Mustang LX. runs & looks great. $750 or best offer. Call 387-0293. /7-

Mot. 18-20 year old men needed for a study of under 6'0" or under $175. Call & leave message. /4-

Computer Repair needs student rep. 5 Hours per week. No selling. Great pay. Call Gordon 1-800-997-7077. /7-

Cash NEEDED: both males and females, ages 18-25, to be in a two-part performance study. Receive $20. Call Comix at 988-1519. /7-

For Sale

For Sale - Yamaha Virago '89, runs good, Asking $350/900. Call Keith at 222-1900. /7-

Used textbooks: Graduating Senior must sell old books - many to choose from, including business as well as liberal listed classes. In great condition and certainly cheaper than bookstore prices. Interested? Call 751-0802 and leave a message. /7-3

Ad

Phone

wants roommate.

Phone

wants roommate.

Phone

wants roommate.

Phone

wants roommate.

Phone

wants

roommate.
Steel Pulse’s release, Victims... Fighting Back, breaks ground

continued from page 16
ple, yet flawlessly produced reggae beats with poignant lyrics sung unassumingly by lead singer David Hinds. The rest of the band—Steve Nisbett and Stevie Wonder—were on electric guitar and percussion, respectively. The album focuses on themes of social justice, with each song addressing different issues. The production is crisp, with tight arrangements and strong instrumentals.

Alvin Ewen on bass—competently adds to the smooth rhythms. They also write catchy melodies that are easily memorable. The final product sounds effortless, even with the addition of some of the current reggae acts. But instead of filling up the album with their basic reggae, they quickly change gears and try out other musical styles. Although they still build up the dance hall reggae, such as on “Grab a Girlfriend,” or “Star Wars: The Empire,” they do branch out into soul (“Can’t Get You Out of My System”), “(Evermore),” smooth funk (“Soul of My Soul”), pop (“Free the Land”), and even African drum (“To Pain”).

They cover many styles on this record, and luckily, for the listener, it works. I think, because the album is over an hour long. Trying to get turned on by boring reggae is about as exciting as watching paint dry. They make the songs lively by including special guests like adding roosters (reggae rappers) and rappers, and having numerous guest artists. Steve Wonder plays harmonica on “Can’t Get You Out,” master Patto Baton plays violin, and on “We Can Do It,” and Karen Richards sings lead on “Feel the Passion.” The Pulse included more female backup or lead singers than any of their other albums, and their presence strengthens the overall sound.

It is hard to classify and grade this album because of the different styles it does, but it helps that the best songs come when Steel Pulse get back to basics and stick with reggae. “Going Worries,” “Victims,” and “We Can Do It” are pure Pulse, easily danceable, but also having a message. Most of the songs were written by David Hinds and although I agree with the overall intent of the messages, at times his lyrics can be too simplistic and unrealistic. He always identifies a political or social problem—apartheid, racism, greed—but doesn’t offer any solutions. Perhaps it’s not his job or that I’m being too picky, but I do have some questions about some of the disjointed questions he asks.

Steel Pulse’s Victims... Fighting Back, their latest from MCA Records

A story from “A long time ago, in a galaxy far, far away...” is continued

The Pulse is a story from “A long time ago, in a galaxy far, far away...” With these words George Lucas started the narrative that has become a firmly entrenched part of our culture. Star Wars and its two sequels became the most successful movie trilogy of all time. The enthralling generation and created a world that many science fiction fans would love to have explored more deeply. But George Lucas has controlled the expansion of the Star Wars saga with an almost parental sternness.

The first film was so successful that Lucas was able to buy out the rights to 20th Century Fox (Star Wars’ financial backer) and since that time he has allowed to new stories, novels, or television episodes to be created that he did not approve offan self. Fans of the Star Wars film have long known that the three movies are only the middle chapter in the overall saga. Star Wars was actually episode four of the entire tale.

But, although the films initially arrived at three year intervals, there have been no new Star Wars stories since 1983’s Return of the Jedi. Lucas said that he needed time away from Star Wars, which had dominated his life for most of the ten years it took to bring the three films to the screen.

Now, it appears that Lucas’ tight grip on new Star Wars material may be loosening. Currently the top of the New York Times hardcover bestseller list is held by Star Wars: Heir to the Empire. The new novel is the first of a three book cycle that is set to take place about five years after the end of Jedi. The task of telling the new story was handed to Hugo Award-winning novelist Timothy Zahn.

The storyline is a compelling one. In the wake of the destruction of the second Death Star, the Rebel alliance has beaten the Empire back to just one-fourth of its original size and has established a New Republic in its place. Han Solo and Leia Organa have wed and Leia is the liaison for the New Republic and the Rebel alliance has beaten the Empire. The Empire is gearing up for another battle, but lend an ear to the growing problems that Lucas has released this book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I await the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

Hey concert-goers!
The Entertainment Editor of The Triangle is finally getting organized. Come in and sign up for concerts coming to Philly and you may get in for free (you’ve got to write a review!). Pop into 3010 Macalester and ask for Ashley.

King’s X and Saigon Kick

Stcro Pulse rock the Troc rain or shine

Steel Pulse... Fighting Back

Steel Pulse’s release, Victims... Fighting Back, breaks ground

continued from page 16

that minor point aside, the album is still worth a listen. So if you are a fan of Steel Pulse, I think you’ll like this record, but don’t expect it to be filled only with reggae. If you’re not familiar with them but want to try something new and danceable, Victims... may also be for you.

King’s X and Saigon Kick

Rock the Troc rain or shine

continued from page 16

R chic Ground

If you are waiting for that day when you can finally enjoy a King’s X show, I have bad news for you. As much as I love King’s X, I can’t help but feel like the band is losing it. Though they are not Darth Vader or the Emperor, Grand Admiral Crotch is evil enough in their own way.

I feel that Zahn was a fine choice to be the caretaker of the Star Wars saga for a while. He knows what the world of Star Wars should be like and he does not fail to deliver that world to the reader.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.

I am now waiting for the next book in this trilogy with almost as much anticipation as I wait for the movies. While I look forward to the books, I can’t help but tend on the growing number of rumors about a new Star Wars film. The stories are that Lucas has released this book as a way to remind the public about Star Wars in preparation for a new film. The film in question would probably be episode I of the original saga: the Clone Wars.
The Triangle • July 12, 1991 • 15

University City’s Zocalo: Authentic Mexican

Ashley G. Smith
Of The Triangle

I reluctantly suggested visiting west Philadelphia’s Zocalo last week after an event at Drexel. I was reluctant because of the two times previous I had visited Zocalo, the experiences were less than stellar. Either the food was “too authentic” for my tastes, or there just wasn’t a back-up on the menu for non-authentic Tex-Mex lovers to cause frowning faces. Well, something has changed dramatically, because my last trip proved more than successful. Zocalo is too good of a deal for anyone to pass up — even as broke students.

I had always admired the set-up and decor of the restaurant. A full bar upon entrance leads you to the hostess, who courteously and quickly seats you in one of the two dining rooms. The menu of this place must have changed, because instead of searching for a safety, I was enticed to try something familiar yet different. The menu offers appetizers such as traditional guacamole, mussels with chiles and pesto, roasted corn, Queso blanco broiled cheese, and soup, all averaging around $5. Salads run around $5, and tortilla dishes run around $11. Entrees include grilled chicken Yucatan style, two color chicken, tropical pork loin, lamb chops New Mexico, and Fried Cochinita Yucateca — moist suckling pig with zucchini, onions, carrots and new potatoes (extra small “bush tchoch” in the side — accompanied by Mexican salad). Terrific zesty flavor and the sauce was heavenly, with chunks of everything and a tasty salad were quickly devoured.

Plan Clasico o Fruta Fresca, classic fish or fresh fruit, was the desert choice. We chose the fish over the fruit, as it is much tastier than I had remembered from years back. This all for $12.95 and definitely confirmed it with me — we just weren’t that hungry and we certainly didn’t need a desert. Suggested wine by the glass accompanies the special feature on the menu, which was the Muscato Jopio Pires ’89 from Portugal at $4.25 a glass. A good deal.

On their menu, Zocalo sort of explains their mission in Philadelphia and styling to recreate the colors, the sounds and the vibrant flavors of Mexico. Their inspiration is the traditional home cooking of the village as well as the Nuevo Cocino style of Mexico’s younger generation.

That in itself seems the difference of the two generations. Morrissey’s music, style, and lyrics have probably much stayed the same from The Smiths through his three solo albums, Viva Hate, Bossa Nova, and his latest, Kill Uncle. Part of Steven Pook’s charm is his wavy black hair. Morrissey’s charm includes his sly and sick lyrics. So when the double decker bus moves in and hooks you in to die by your side, the pleasure, the privilege is mine. Funny, but true.

Morrissey is an odd sort, which is his attraction these days. The bearing old man wearing a fashion accessory and the small tree sprouting from the back pocket of his jeans guarantees he will never be young. The image is different. The attitude is more of a “fuck you” than the glitter groups of yesterday. Morrissey left Duran Duran in 1978 to explore his own path. In 1984, he released his solo album Meat Is Murder. Did it leave their hungry? How is it that my generation get their pleasure from this form over function. For old and young. The guy is no longer young. The image is different. The old Smiths albums like Meat Is Murder are the best. The new... I’m a sucker for black bags.

Wear black and wave your arms through my three solo albums, Viva Hate, Bossa Nova, and his latest, Kill Uncle. Part of Steven Pook’s charm is his wavy black hair. Morrissey’s charm includes his sly and sick lyrics. So when the double decker bus moves in and hooks you in to die by your side, the pleasure, the privilege is mine. Funny, but true.

Morrissey is an odd sort, which is his attraction these days. The bearing old man wearing a fashion accessory and the small tree sprouting from the back pocket of his jeans guarantees he will never be young. The image is different. The attitude is more of a “fuck you” than the glitter groups of yesterday. Morrissey left Duran Duran in 1978 to explore his own path. In 1984, he released his solo album Meat Is Murder. Did it leave their hungry? How is it that my generation get their pleasure from this form over function. For old and young. The guy is no longer young. The image is different. The old Smiths albums like Meat Is Murder are the best. The new... I’m a sucker for black bags.

That in itself seems the difference of the two generations. Morrissey’s music, style, and lyrics have probably much stayed the same from The Smiths through his three solo albums, Viva Hate, Bossa Nova, and his latest, Kill Uncle. Part of Steven Pook’s charm is his wavy black hair. Morrissey’s charm includes his sly and sick lyrics. So when the double decker bus moves in and hooks you in to die by your side, the pleasure, the privilege is mine. Funny, but true.

Morrissey is an odd sort, which is his attraction these days. The bearing old man wearing a fashion accessory and the small tree sprouting from the back pocket of his jeans guarantees he will never be young. The image is different. The attitude is more of a “fuck you” than the glitter groups of yesterday. Morrissey left Duran Duran in 1978 to explore his own path. In 1984, he released his solo album Meat Is Murder. Did it leave their hungry? How is it that my generation get their pleasure from this form over function. For old and young. The guy is no longer young. The image is different. The old Smiths albums like Meat Is Murder are the best. The new... I’m a sucker for black bags. Willie Nile has a pretty good album for the summertime.

U2

Carroll Smith
Triangle Staff Writer

Summer time is made for beer and barbecued chicken and ribs and meat in the park and straight ahead rock and roll. Willie Nile has made a great album for the summertime. Places I Have Never Been is perfect to pop into to cool off, roll down the windows and crank up the volume.

Willie Nile’s music is similar to the early styles of such troubadours as John Cougar (pre-McCready), Kris Kristofferson, Bryan Adams (pre-sock-hop ballads) and Bruce Springsteen (pre-The River). In other words, he digs in black, plays power chords through a Fender stratocaster and sings about love, lost love, dreams and lost hopes. There is no pretense to being a pseudo-mystic or the unfair hammering of the big picture. The little picture right in front of Willie is enough for any deal with— and he deals with it by penning solid, if sometimes a bit too jumpy, tunes with festive melodies and lots of repeating choruses. The perfect summertime plat to sing to and drive around.

Willie opens the album with a stunner tune. “Places I Have Never Been” is a joyful and melodic celebration of being punch-drunk on love and hope. The song promises a catchy melody and tuneful, tsst much so that Willie closes the album with a repeat. The song is about your car. The lyrics are fun. Come and take me on a trip so far away. Come and take my hand. Come and take me through your world unpredictable. Come and take me places I have never been. Nothing too profound, but so what! The album doesn’t aspire to that. What the album does aspire to is accessibility.

There is a good mix of solid rock and roll, some tunes turned out by studio veteran and accompanying bass player Bob Bruns and others, some songs written by Nile in collaboration with other artists or depicts Latin themes, “Waves” and “Latin Themes,” a once better time for music. As the song goes, “You can be a someone you once were.”

That’s exactly what Morrissey fans ask, “Who are The Smiths?”

Ashley G. Smith
Of The Triangle

As a twenty-one year-old, I felt as though I was one of the oldest people there. Yikes! Wait a minute. How is it that my generation get their pleasure from this form over function. For old and young. The guy is no longer young. The image is different. The old Smiths albums like Meat Is Murder are the best. The new... I’m a sucker for black bags.

Wear black and wave your arms through his three solo albums, Viva Hate, Bossa Nova, and his latest, Kill Uncle. Part of Steven Pook’s charm is his wavy black hair. Morrissey’s charm includes his sly and sick lyrics. So when the double decker bus moves in and hooks you in to die by your side, the pleasure, the privilege is mine. Funny, but true.

Morrissey is an odd sort, which is his attraction these days. The bearing old man wearing a fashion accessory and the small tree sprouting from the back pocket of his jeans guarantees he will never be young. The image is different. The attitude is more of a “fuck you” than the glitter groups of yesterday. Morrissey left Duran Duran in 1978 to explore his own path. In 1984, he released his solo album Meat Is Murder. Did it leave their hungry? How is it that my generation get their pleasure from this form over function. For old and young. The guy is no longer young. The image is different. The old Smiths albums like Meat Is Murder are the best. The new... I’m a sucker for black bags.

That in itself seems the difference of the two generations. Morrissey’s music, style, and lyrics have probably much stayed the same from The Smiths through his three solo albums, Viva Hate, Bossa Nova, and his latest, Kill Uncle. Part of Steven Pook’s charm is his wavy black hair. Morrissey’s charm includes his sly and sick lyrics. So when the double decker bus moves in and hooks you in to die by your side, the pleasure, the privilege is mine. Funny, but true.

Morrissey is an odd sort, which is his attraction these days. The bearing old man wearing a fashion accessory and the small tree sprouting from the back pocket of his jeans guarantees he will never be young. The image is different. The attitude is more of a “fuck you” than the glitter groups of yesterday. Morrissey left Duran Duran in 1978 to explore his own path. In 1984, he released his solo album Meat Is Murder. Did it leave their hungry? How is it that my generation get their pleasure from this form over function. For old and young. The guy is no longer young. The image is different. The old Smiths albums like Meat Is Murder are the best. The new... I’m a sucker for black bags.

That in itself seems the difference of the two generations. Morrissey’s music, style, and lyrics have probably much stayed the same from The Smiths through his three solo albums, Viva Hate, Bossa Nova, and his latest, Kill Uncle. Part of Steven Pook’s charm is his wavy black hair. Morrissey’s charm includes his sly and sick lyrics. So when the double decker bus moves in and hooks you in to die by your side, the pleasure, the privilege is mine. Funny, but true.

Morrissey is an odd sort, which is his attraction these days. The bearing old man wearing a fashion accessory and the small tree sprouting from the back pocket of his jeans guarantees he will never be young. The image is different. The attitude is more of a “fuck you” than the glitter groups of yesterday. Morrissey left Duran Duran in 1978 to explore his own path. In 1984, he released his solo album Meat Is Murder. Did it leave their hungry? How is it that my generation get their pleasure from this form over function. For old and young. The guy is no longer young. The image is different. The old Smiths albums like Meat Is Murder are the best. The new... I’m a sucker for black bags.
King's X and Saigon Kick rock the Troc

Richard Knight

Triangle Staff Writer

It was an exciting prospect. My favorite band, King's X, plus two other distinguished newcomers, Saigon Kick. The ad in the paper indicated an "all age" show, and doors opening at 4 p.m. The reality was many different. It was hot and stormy during the weather. We got to the Troc at 4 p.m. and secured places about ten feet in line. Shows like this always attract a small crowd separated into those with and without advance tickets. It didn't help that the "whirls" meant moving up to about six feet in line. Come 4:30, King's X was already in full swing. A Gasilla came out front to sign autographs and chat for a while, assuring us that they'll play for about two hours. The storms got closer, the wind and dust blew, it rained and we started to get wet. No sign of the doors opening at 5 p.m. came and went. I waved the ad from the paper at the Troc staff in vain, but they grinned as at getting wet. No one knew when the doors would open. King's X was apparently still checking the sound so we had to wait. Word spread that the Troc had been shut out for a private party beginning at 9:30 so the whole show had to be moved up to 5:45. The doors opened and we got to go inside. Having stood for almost two hours, we were relieved. We got a drink and duly got stamped "COD" to show that we were of age and admitted to the upper level "oooroom" where the bar was.

The interior of the Trocadero is kind of a "decayed former elegance." It has recently been opened after renovation, and although apart from the new disco lights suspended from the ceiling, it still looks like a rundown, former showplace. Actually, it could be made into a very good small concert venue, but the music comes up against the building's two levels but only the lower one was used, the top level seems to be part of the night's set. The seats are no more than padded benches, which would be awful if the place was full, but fortunately we had room to stretch out a bit and enjoy a few beers.

Saigon Kick appeared at 5:30. Sounding horrendous until the mix was sorted out, but whipping up quite a frenzy out there and getting some crowd reaction. By the third number, the sound was o.k., and the band was starting to enjoy themselves. At 6:35, about 20 seconds into their fifth or sixth number it was obvious that something was very wrong — the PA was turned way down, and the rest of the show was completely shut off. It was an exciting prospect. The lights weren't working and things just fell apart mid-song. The curtains closed. When the lights came back up and the curtains opened, we could see Saigon Kick's drums stove against the stage! King's X appeared at 7:10. Opening up with "King" from their first album Out of the Silent Planet. Night and day! Beautiful sound, crystal clean vocals and power. Only a three-piece band, King's X are not your average run of the mill multi-racial trio, possibly harbored by a slight "Christian metal" tag, they are far away today's most interesting band. Blending hard rock with tight vocal harmonies and well written songs, King's X wins music is unique. I believe Doug Pinnick, the left-handed, black bass/vocalist, calls their show the "pound because of the power and emotion they work up during a show. They have been compared to the Beatles and at times this is very evident. This is no criticism, however, but a compliment. There are no gimmicks with King's X, just music. No lasers, no pyrotechnics, no half hour guitar solos. Although in my book, the star of the show was guitarist Ty Taber, who played a blinder. The music see KING'S X on page 14

Steel Pulse try some new sounds on their latest

John Vassallo

Triangle Staff Writer

Yah mon, Dere a new record out for I an ' I. Well, enough of the same ol' dope at patois. Anyway, the reggae band I'm going to review is from England, not Jamaica.

Steel Pulse have been around for years, and although not well known to most rock music fans, they have consistently released strong albums that have solidified their standing in the reggae world. Two of their best, Earth, Wind and Fire, are considered to be some of the best reggae ever. On their latest release, the fine Vicious, "flying back, they have decided to broaden their musical base. They don't venture too far from their reggae strengths, but just enough to make one wonder what they were trying to do.

The Pulse, like many reggae artists, write songs about all types of racial discrimination and the first song, "Taxi Driver," is a clear example. "Taxi Driver" won't stop for me ... Because of my dreadlocks looking wild! they won't stop for me ... Because of my dreadlocks looking wild! They don't venture too far from their reggae base, but just enough to make one wonder what they were trying to do.

The Pulse, like many reggae artists, write songs about all types of racial discrimination and the first song, "Taxi Driver," is a clear example. "Taxi Driver" won't stop for me ... Because of my dreadlocks looking wild! they won't stop for me ... Because of my dreadlocks looking wild! They don't venture too far from their reggae base, but just enough to make one wonder what they were trying to do.

The Pulse, like many reggae artists, write songs about all types of racial discrimination and the first song, "Taxi Driver," is a clear example. "Taxi Driver" won't stop for me ... Because of my dreadlocks looking wild! they won't stop for me ... Because of my dreadlocks looking wild! They don't venture too far from their reggae base, but just enough to make one wonder what they were trying to do.